"My story is presently done, Like the ballad of good Mother Mary; But all imposition to shun, Remember, Ne crede color!"

Jimmy Wadsworth's sole recommendation for the job of Secretary of War seem to be ability and experience.

Charlie Curtis decides to raise the Vice Admiral's flag on the Mayflower.

Clyde Reed is still wet behind the ears as Governor of Kansas, but so dry otherwise that he demands a $40,000 licker drive. The Great American Desert that helps to enforce prohibition on the rest of us by all means should obey the law its representatives in Congress pass for the benefit of others.

The Ladies' Congressional Club decides to become exclusive.

Seems that under the theory of the newer economics no better plan for helping the down-trodden farmer could possibly be devised than by putting a high tariff on lumber and making his barn cost more. This is going to be a great extra session for Seth and Si.

Another man, father of five, goes to jail for life on a charge of murdering a little Michigan boy for having a little moonshine in his house. Any country that turns fanaticism into despotism is headed for a restoration of King Run that will make the gaudy restoration of Charles II seem pale and sickly by contrast. Is there no pardoning power left in America?

Grand Duke Alexander, of Russia, inclines to the opinion that as the Pretender to the Romanoff throne nobody can fill his shoes, and, indeed, thanks to the carelessness of a Chicago bellhop, he can't even fill 'em himself.

Such are the marvels of science that by the time Al Smith had finished his punhandling by radio the returns began pouring in by telegraph. "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party."

New public school in Rossmore will be named after Matthew Fontaine Maury, the "Pathfinder of the Sea."

At Smith becomes a director in a bank, and, judging by the way the campaign funds are pouring in, they ought to make him president.

We gather that the revolt in Afghanistan grew out of the fact that the introduction of Paris fashions in Amanullah's harem made the coochee-coochee dancers blush.

The disclosure by Senator Tydings that Italy all but outranked the American Navy comes as a great shock to the Pittsburgh, which had hoped that we now stood in cruiser power between Madagascar and Tierra del Fuego.

A higher tariff on furniture ought to be a great contribution to the cause of farm relief—when it has to do without chairs and beds he can spend more time out in the field hoeing corn.

Mauretania reduces the speed record between New York and Plymouth by two cocktails and a highball.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt demands a modern interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine. Is the Brook report on the Kellogg treaty already out of date?

When the House Immigration committee completes its revised definition of what constitutes a musician, a whole lot of saxophone players in this country will have to go to work for a living.

Nel since Lyceum was changed into a wolf or Jupiter into a bull have we noted so strange a metamorphosis as that of a small-town shik being changed into the Wild Man of Borneo. The death of our familiar old circus friend back in the big days should have been recorded by Publius Ovidius himself. Strange it is indeed what forms vanity will take.

Let us trust that the Navy will not be scuttled by the windy arguments of its friends. The way to pass the cruiser bill is to cut out the talk and pass it.

If it will cost $40,000 in 1929 to dry up Kansas, which has been dry since 1881, how far will $25,000,000 go in drying up the United States which hasn't been dry yet? Boast this to $250,000,000, boys.

Four are killed, in a three-car wreck near Aberdeen, Md., that might have driven a Venezuelan earthquake entirely off the front page.

Kansas needs a bug—she isn't the only State that has been made out by the Eighteenth amendment.

4 KILLED, MANY HURT IN TRIPLE RAILWAY CRASH

Injured Are Feared to Be Pinned in Wreckage Near Aberdeen.

TWO P. R. R. TRAINS PLUNGE INTO FREIGHT

District Residents Among Passengers; Relatives Wait at Station.

ALL DEAD MEMBERS OF RAILROAD CREWS

Escape of Travelers Aboard Coaches Is Regarded as Miraculous.

Traveling through a dense fog near dusk yesterday, two Pennsylvania Railroad passenger trains and a freight train met almost simultaneously at Short Lane, Md., 2 miles south of Aberdeen, killing four members of the crew instantly, injuring two others, one critically, and cutting and maiming and bruising many passengers.

A number of Washington residents were on both passenger trains. One of these, No. 121, was en route to Washington from New York, the other had left Washington more than an hour before the triple wreck and was destined for New York.

No passengers were reported killed, according to Pennsylvania Railroad officials and passengers who came to Washington on the first relief train, which arrived at the Union Station at 11:53 o'clock last night.

Dispatches from Aberdeen, however, indicated that some passengers on the Washington-bound train might be pinned in the twisted wreckage of sleeping cars which were strewn for half a mile along the right of way.

Trainmen Are Killed. News of the wreck reached Washington about the time the southbound train was due to arrive. Numbers of people were on hand awaiting the arrival of friends and relatives, and as the evening wore on, with no news as to the safety of the awaited ones, the waiting evidenced anxiety, in many instances becoming almost panicky.

This anxiety was so intense that when the first relief train pulled into the Union Station, the waiting ones became hysterical. They expressed their joy at the safety of those they expected in tears, prayers, laughter and greetings—loud and boisterous due to suspense and the seven-hour wait.

Sixty persons who were passengers on the southbound train were aboard the relief train. Practically all bore evidence of their experience. The dead: K. A. Klein, brakeman of the freight train.

V. W. Stewart, freight train flagman. A. C. Terhune, engineer of the southbound passenger train.

T. J. Kavanaugh, fireman of the Washington-New York passenger train, was severely scalded that surgeons at the hospital at Havre de Grace, Md., where he was taken for treatment, held no hope for his recovery.

Freeman Also Hurt. John Lee, fireman on the northbound train, was at the same hospital under treatment for shock. His condition is not considered serious.

"Wild Man of Borneo," Dead At 82, Given Pauper's Grave

Circus Performer of Years Ago, Found Ill and Penniless in Squalid Hut, Taken to County Poorhouse; Separated From Family; Once Town's "Beau."

Platteville, Wis., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Strains of the once popular song, "On the Wild Man From Borneo, He Just Came to Town," were recalled today with news of the death of Silvester Hendershot, who was buried in a pauper's grave here yesterday.

So quietly was this man—who claimed he was the original "wild man"—buried that most of the residents of this little southern Wisconsin town did not know his funeral had taken place. To them, anyway, he was just "Ves" Hendershot, 82 years old, who lived by himself in a little shack on the edge of town.

"Ves" had lived in that shack until a week ago, when officials found him, still with the long hair and "wild man" accoutrements, gazing fondly at a circus poster which marked his earlier triumphs. The hut was squalid. He had no money. He was ill. His "Borneo" earnings had vanished. He was taken to the county poorhouse.

CLUB PRESIDENT

MRS. PETER G. GERRY.

CONGRESSIONAL SET WANTS BLACKBALL

Club Studies Proposed Ban as Negro Member and Family Approach.

TO VOTE ON FEBRUARY 6

The Congressional Club, whose membership is composed of "women in official life," is paving the way to use the blackball. It is facing a race problem, which is causing much concern to its members. This organization is recognized by Congress, which incorporated it May 30, 1908. Mrs. Peter G. Gerry, wife of Senator Gerry, of Rhode Island, is president; Mrs. John B. Henderson, millionaire society leader of Washington, is honorary vice president; and Mrs. Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania; Mrs. Fina Garrett, of Tennessee; Mrs. Albert W. Barkley, of Kentucky; Mrs. Wesley Jones, of Washington; and Mrs. John B. Aswell, of Louisiana, all wives of congressmen, are vice presidents.

In the past the wife of a member of Congress was ineligible to membership in the club. In fact, she was sought as a member.

At the last election Oscar De Priest, wealthy negro of Chicago, was elected to Congress. His wife and other immediate women of the family are now automatically eligible. This situation has caused perturbation in the congressional set, and a movement is on foot to amend the constitution of the club.

Mrs. Albert H. Vestal, wife of Representative Vestal (Republican), Indiana, has offered an amendment to be voted on February 6, the date of the next business meeting of the club. Her proposal would permit the rejection of an applicant. It provides that the applicant must have the endorsement of one or more active members of the club from the State where the applicant resides, and the application must be approved by the executive committee of the club.

The last paragraph of the proposed amendment reads: "If the report of the committee is unfavorable the applicant shall be denied membership in said club." There is no appeal.

The members of the club are discussing the possibilities of this amendment. It is generally understood that the purpose is to bar "nobody" not desired. Officers of the club would not discuss the amendment.

QUAKE KILLS 25, DESTROYS CITY IN VENEZUELA

Every Building Is Leveled in Cumana, Leading Business Center.

APPEAL FOR DOCTORS AND MEDICINES SENT

Governor Asks President to Supply Food and Other Articles.

Caracas, Venezuela, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The newspaper El Universal says that 25 dead and a great number of injured have been taken from the ruins of the city of Cumana, which was shaken by an earthquake this morning.

The governor of Cumana sent a wireless message to President Gomez, tonight saying that the quake, which occurred at 7 a. m. destroyed every building in the city. He said there was a great number of victims and he appealed for physicians, medicine and food.

The government is rushing steamers and other vessels with supplies, physicians, nurses and tents to the stricken area.

Paris, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Dispatches to Havana News Agency from Caracas tonight said that the City of Cumana, Venezuela, had been almost destroyed by an earthquake at 6 a. m. today. The dispatches said many were dead.

Cumana, the Venezuelan town reported destroyed by earthquake, has a population of about 16,000 and is celebrated as being the first permanent settlement of Europeans on the coast of the Gulf of Guayaquil. The city is situated on the banks of the Manabito River, about a mile from the southern coast of the Gulf. The city is the seat of a United States consular agent and is an important commercial center, trade being promoted by an excellent roadstead and harbor. Situated on ground of a volcanic formation, the city has frequently suffered from earthquakes.

The surrounding country is fertile, producing especially fine grapes, pineapples and other fruits and such tropical plants as coffee and coconuts. A railroad connects the city with the Gulf. Manufacture of cotton goods is an important industry.

Founded in 1820 by Gonzales Ocampo, the city is the capital of the new State of Sucre.

Legislators Move To Impeach Judge

Action Taken for Accepting Fee of $2,500 From Aimee McPherson.

Los Angeles, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Ousted from membership in the American Bar Association as the result of accepting a $2,500 legal fee from Aimee McPherson, evangelist, while he held a position on the bench, Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy today was the object of an impeachment movement.

Members of the Los Angeles County delegation of the lower house of the California Legislature in caucus at Sacramento voted to file the impeachment charges.

They acted after Assemblyman Emory Arnold had introduced a resolution in the house calling for an investigation of Hardy's acceptance of money from Mrs. McPherson. After considering Judge Hardy's case at Miami Beach, Fla., yesterday, the executive committee of the American Bar Association expelled him from membership on the grounds of unethical conduct.

Mail Order Sweetheart's Slayer Ordered to Hang

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Archie F. Much was sentenced in superior court today to hang for the murder of Mrs. Katherine Clark, of Boston, his "mail-order" sweetheart. When sentence was pronounced Much asserted his innocence. The date for execution will not be set until Much has time to arrange an appeal.

The Spokane mail worker was found guilty of killing Mrs. Clark after he had been induced to come here through a matrimonial agency. The State charged that Much, who is married and has five children, described himself to Mrs. Clark as a wealthy bachelor, and then killed her for the money she brought West.

Youth Leads Dog Race Through Heavy Storm

Concord, N. H., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—With 10-year-old Sandy McLeod, of Dedham, Mass., setting the pace, six sled dogs team, passed through the outskirts of this city this afternoon on the fourth leg of their 220-mile trek from Berlin to Boston.

The teams, which started from Tilton this morning and went tonight at Manchester, were making slow time through a heavy snowstorm which set in soon after they had left Tilton.

IS CRITICIZED

MRS. MABEL WALKER WILLEBRANDT

PRISON REPORT HITS MRS. WILLEBRANDT

House Committee to Assail Campaign on Warden of Atlanta Penitentiary.

ALL FACTS TO BE GIVEN

A House committee, appointed to investigate Federal prisons, is writing a report which will severely criticize Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General, for putting an undercover agent of the Department of Justice in the Atlanta Prison to "spy" on Warden John W. Snook. Members of the committee assert she overstepped the law.

The Atlanta case caused much comment here last autumn, when the facts became known.

Friends of Snook contend Mrs. Willebrandt is after him because he permitted Earl Carroll to get a lot of publicity while he was in the Atlanta institution. She used a Federal court at Detroit to have one "Hansen"—of the Department of Justice detective squad—"sentenced" and "committed" to the Atlanta prison so that he could get information on Snook. Carolyn E. Means recognized "Hansen" and told Snook he was a representative of the department here. Snook protested and "Hansen" was shipped to Leavenworth, and later sent to Hawaii on a special assignment.

The House prison committee held hearings at Atlanta several weeks ago, and went into the "Hansen" plant. Some of the members wanted to hear Mrs. Willebrandt, but she is now in the West on business for the department, and they decided not to wait. The committee is withholding all testimony until its report is ready but it is known it will blame Mrs. Willebrandt for the undercover campaign against Snook.

Mrs. Willebrandt was explained at the Department of Justice, is not afraid of any exposures in the Snook investigation. She feels her cause was strictly within the law.

The Attorney General manifested much interest in the check-up on the Atlanta warden. He is the one who suggested the method of procedure, which resulted in placing "Hansen" in the prison to get the facts about Snook. It is now understood he will accept responsibility when the time comes.

Mrs. Willebrandt was summoned here and questioned by Mrs. Willebrandt, in October, and it was reported at the time he would be dismissed. But he is still on the job. The Attorney General ordered him to come to Washington.

The right name of "Hansen" is William Larsen.

It is expected the House committee report will bring out all the facts in the case.

Princess Mary Thrown From Horse in Chase

London, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The Daily Mail tomorrow will say Princess Mary was thrown from her horse while hunting Monday with the Bramham Hunt hounds, but escaped injury.

Her horse floundered in the mud and fell on its side. The princess was thrown clear, but the ground being soft she was not hurt. Other riders helped her to her feet. She laughed, got back on her horse and went on with the hunt.

2 Missing Women Sought by Police

Woods Near Anacostia Being Searched for Sick Wife, Who Left Home.

A searching party of relatives and police of the Eleventh Precinct under Lieut. Sidney Marks were beating the woods near Anacostia and Congress Heights early this morning in an effort to find Mrs. Elmer F. McCormick, 33 years old, who disappeared from her home last night after penning a note saying no one would ever see her again.

Waiter A. McCormick, the woman's husband, told police his wife had been in ill health and was in a highly nervous state before she left home. At the same time, police and members of the woman's bureau were conducting a city-wide search for Miss Evelyn McCormick, 25, who has been missing from her home at 907 New York avenue northwest since Tuesday, when she left home to look for work.

CABINET SEES COOLIDGE SIGN ANTIWAR PACT

Third of Senate Also at White House for Historic Act.

PEN GIVEN KELLOGG USED BY PRESIDENT

Effectiveness of Treaty Awaits Ratifications of Other Signatory Powers.

(Associated Press.)

Bearing the signature of President Coolidge, a brief but momentous document reposed last night in the archives of the State Department to attest that the United States has given its full and unconditional approval to the Kellogg treaty for the renunciation of war. The paper, known officially as the instrument of ratification, was signed yesterday by the Chief Executive in the midst of ceremonies imposing in their simplicity and surrounded by an atmosphere of solemnity befitting the supreme importance which Mr. Coolidge attaches to the pact.

Entire Cabinet Present. In the historic east room of the White House had gathered the entire Cabinet, high officials of the State Department and more than one-third of the members of the Senate. They looked on as the President signed his name to the instrument, passed it to Secretary Kellogg for certification of his signature and then followed the same course with a duplicate of the document.

To America fell the distinction of being the first of the fifteen original signatory nations to ratify the pact, but before it can become effective it must be approved by the fourteen other powers in the manner prescribed by their respective constitutions, and their own instruments of ratification must be deposited with the Washington Government, which is custodian of the original treaty. When this has been accomplished, exchange copies of the pact will be signed by each of the thirteen states.

Dawes With President. Responding to the invitation of President Coolidge, the senators gathered at the White House shortly before 10 o'clock and were escorted to the East Room. A few minutes after the hour, Mr. Coolidge, with Vice President Dawes at his side, and preceded by his military and naval aids and followed by the Cabinet officers, entered the room.

Motion Pictures Taken. Brilliant calcium lights were turned on and motion picture cameras ground away as the President dipped his pen and began inscribing his signature. When he had finished he handed the paper and the pen to Secretary Kellogg, who attached his name as a witness to the President's signature. In the same manner, the second copy was quickly signed by both. The gold pen presented to Secretary Kellogg by the City of Havre, at the time he visited France last summer to sign the treaty, was used.

While the President was affixing his signature, Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Kellogg stood behind him.

POLICE GRAFT CASE TO GO BEFORE JURY

Prosecutor Says That He Will Act After Questioning Chief Witnesses.

TELEGRAM SENT BLANTON

Sensational graft accusations made against a police captain by a woman palmer will be laid before the grand jury after the questioning of witnesses. Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins, in charge of the investigation, announced yesterday. Although he had not as yet interviewed any of the principals in the case, Collins declared from information and evidence given him by the Gibson subcommittee of the House District committee, which instituted the investigation, the case merited a grand jury inquiry, unless something unexpected arose.

A telegram was dispatched to Representative Thomas L. Blanton, of Texas, by Collins, asking if Mrs. Helen Blaylock, the palmer and accuser of the captain, was still in Texas. The communication also asked Mr. Blanton to forward all information the woman had given him concerning the charges, and inquired when the palmer would return to the city.

Mrs. Blaylock went to Texas after replying her charges to Representative Ernest W. Gibson, of Vermont, chairman of the subcommittee, at a secret session of the House.

Financier Is Chosen With Young as Unofficial American Experts.

NAMES ANNOUNCED BY ENVOY OF BRITAIN

Conferees to Decide Total of Payments Required From Germany.

KELLOGG APPRISED OF ALLIES' DECISION

First Meeting to Set Limit on War Claims Planned for Next Month.

(United Press.) J. Pierpont Morgan, head of the famous Wall Street firm, and Owen D. Young, of the General Electric Co., have been chosen by the six foreign governments as the principal unofficial American delegates to the experts' investigation designed finally to settle the German reparations problem. This official announcement was made yesterday by Secretary of State Kellogg by Sir James Howard, British Ambassador to the United States, who is acting on behalf of Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Japan on the one hand, and Germany on the other. Thomas Nelson Perkins, Boston lawyer, and former private American observer on the reparations commission in Paris, has been selected by the foreign governments as alternate to the principal American representative, Sir James Howard announced.

Howard Plans Conference. After Secretary Kellogg had made it plain to Sir James that the United States has no objection to these American citizens lending their aid in the reparations inquiry, since they will act entirely in their unofficial, independent and private character, the Ambassador announced he would leave tomorrow for New York to confer with the Americans selected and obtain their agreement to accept formal invitations for Paris.

Sir James Howard said, following his conversation with the Secretary of State, that he did not know who had brought forward the name of Mr. Morgan, for it is known he was suggested only within the last week, nor whether the New York banker had internally given his consent to serve.

"I have great hopes, however," said the diplomat, smiling, "that Mr. Morgan will agree to participate." Thomas W. Lamont, a Morgan partner, and Dean Jay, head of the Morgan bank in Paris, have been variously mentioned as the probable alternate to Mr. Morgan, with Perkins serving as alternate to Mr. Young. The British Ambassador said, however, he knew nothing of this, and that so far as he knew there would be only one alternate.

Views Exchanged. The final selection of Morgan, Young and Perkins follows an exchange of views that has been going on ever since last week-end among the six governments concerned to get a definite agreement on the name of Americans desired to lend the unofficial aid of this country in the new effort to dispose of the thorniest postwar problem of Europe.

The various governments already had decided, it was understood, to ask Young and Perkins to serve, but it was only last week-end that the name of Morgan was brought forward, when the British Ambassador called his government to the effect that he had information that Morgan if invited would agree to serve.

This report was followed by a long series of cables exchanged among all the governments until final agreement was reached yesterday to invite Morgan along with Young and Perkins. Whether Sir James will see all three of the proposed American representatives is not known.

$400,000 Diamond Shunned As Bandits Raid Gem Salon

Jewels Worth $200,000 Taken From Ultra-Exclusive New York Dealer; Clerks Bound Into One Bundle by Thoughtful Thieves.

New York, Jan. 17 (United Press).—Five correctly attired young men rolled up to Mauboussin's exclusive jewelry salon opposite St. Bartholomew's Church on Park avenue today, in their expensive town cars. Five minutes later they rolled away again, taking with them something more than $200,000 worth of the finest diamonds, rubies, pearls and emeralds that New York had boasted of.

They hadn't paid a cent for them. Instead they had first tied up separately the manager, three employees and a visitor. Then they had rolled them together and tied them into one bundle for convenience in handling. It all happened about 11:15 a. m. and it gave Grover Whalen, New York's gardenia-wearing police commissioner, his first great mystery to solve. That the five young men were a wise quintet was amply proved by their conduct when they came across the famous lives in New York is not yet known. But it is believed he will at least confer with Morgan and Young. When he has obtained the consent of all of them to serve, the reparations commission in Paris, it is understood, will immediately extend the formal invitations, permitting the experts conference to meet in Paris early in February.

Str. Eames denied knowledge of reports that Owen D. Young would be the chairman of the reparations conference and indicated that was a question to be decided by the meeting of the experts. The procedure in bringing about the new reparations inquiry has followed almost step for step the same developments which led up to unofficial American participation in the original Dawes investigation, which brought for the first time a definite and workable reparations agreement out of the European impasse on this question.

The new investigation is to determine what total sum of reparations Germany can and should pay, as the Dawes plan carried an agreement on the annuities and the means by which Germany should pay them, but failed to provide how long Germany should continue paying.

In connection with the determination of the final reparations sum Germany must pay it is expected the experts and the interested governments will work out a scheme of financing of about $1,000,000,000 worth of German bonds to facilitate execution of the reparations plan.

The United States market eventually will be expected to absorb a large share, probably about 40 per cent, and it is for this reason that J. P. Morgan, head of the principal financial establishment, which will probably be asked to handle this operation, is being sought to serve in the experts' conference.

Man Falling Into Canal Accused of Intoxication

John Ricketts, 38 years old, of 1059 Potomac street northwest, was saved from drowning in the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal about 9:30 o'clock last night by two unidentified young men who saw him walk along the towpath and fall into the canal when he lost his balance.

Ricketts, after being given first aid treatment at the Seventh Precinct Station, was sent to Gallinger Hospital after being booked on a charge of intoxication.

Legislator Wields Paper Cutter in Row

Fight in Oklahoma House
Averted by Intervention of Sergeant at Arms

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 17 (U.P.)—Oklahoma impeachment politics got steamered up today to such an extent that one house member threatened another with a paper cutter.

The sergeant at arms separated them. The net result was high blood pressure among the ranks of legislators fighting against impeachment of Gov. Henry B. Johnston. It was the first militant move since Johnston called out troops a year ago to quell a special extrajudicial impeachment session.

The fight, which might have set off a general legislative brawl, came when anti-Johnston members introduced a resolution that Congress be asked to withhold all Federal highway aid from Oklahoma until State highway affairs had been investigated.

Representative J. T. Daniels, a Johnston supporter, enraged at remarks by House Paul anti-Johnston members, invited his opponent to "come on over." They started at each other. Paul holding a paper cutter, only to be stopped by the officer.

CASHIER SHOT DEAD AFTER CASH DEMAND

Bank of Slain Man Is Said to
Have $80,000 Forged by Another Banker.

LATTER IS UNDER ARREST

Sullivan, Ind., Jan. 17 (A.P.)—Authorities who were attempting today to solve the mystery of the death yesterday of Edgar D. Maple, vice president of the Peoples National Bank & Trust Co., adopted a theory that he was slain by a person from whom he had received a telephone call Tuesday night requesting that Maple be at the bank Wednesday morning with $4,000.

Maple's body, with a bullet wound in the forehead, was found in the bank Wednesday morning by William C. Jamison, cashier, who told officers that Maple had informed him the day before of the telephone message.

Shelburn Bank Investigated.

Coincidentally with the investigation of Maple's death, State bank examiners and county officers were making an inquiry into the affairs of the State Bank of Shelburn, near here, whose president, J. F. Bolinger, confessed today that he had uttered forged notes on the bank with which Maple was connected. The amount of Bolinger's paper held by the Sullivan bank is said to be between $80,000 and $85,000, most of which examiners believe is fraudulent.

Bolinger had recovered today from the effects of carbon monoxide poisoning suffered in his garage at Shelburn yesterday. He was found unconscious in the garage about two hours after Maple's body had been found at Sullivan.

Jamison, in informing officials of the telephone call to Maple, said that the vice president told him he had received a message from a customer, whose name he did not give, asking that he be at the bank at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday with the $4,000. Jamison told authorities that when he found Maple's body the bank vault was open as if the vice president had entered to get the money. Bank officials said today the $4,000 could not be found.

Bolinger Under Arrest.

Jelburn, Ind., Jan. 17 (A.P.)—Jesse F. Bolinger, president of the State Bank of Shelburn, was arrested today and is being held under $10,000 bond on a charge of uttering a forged note on the Peoples National Bank & Trust Co. of Sullivan, near here. Bolinger is said to have confessed to the forgery.

Other forgeries also are said to be involved.

The Shelburn bank closed at noon yesterday after directors held a telephone conference with Luther F. Simmons, State bank commissioner.

996 Gunmen's Resorts
Are Found by Whelan

New York, Jan. 17 (A.P.)—Grover Whelan, police commissioner, has found that the city shelters 996 notorious resorts where known criminals and gunmen congregated.

The commissioner today made public the results of a survey he had made to the places, but he didn't make public their addresses. The list has been given to the police department's gunmen experts with instructions that the resorts be watched closely.

PENSION RAISE PLEA HEARD BY COOLIDGE

Green and Other Labor Heads
Call at White House
About Dale Bill.

VISITORS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Hope for passage of the Dale-Lehbach bill to liberalize the civil service retirement law was revived yesterday after a delegation headed by President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, emerged from the White House.

Green said that the conference with President Coolidge was highly satisfactory, and while the President did not commit himself, he seemed impressed by the argument put up in favor of the retirement bill.

The President was represented three days ago as being strongly opposed to the bill on the ground that the present retirement law was satisfactory. He said nothing along this line yesterday after a delegation headed by President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, emerged from the White House.

The statement was as follows:

"Representing the joint conference on retirement, we respectfully invite your attention to the pending legislation known as the Dale-Lehbach bill, which has for its purpose certain improvements in the existing civil service retirement law.

"This legislation in substance provides for an increase in annuities whereby the present average annuity will be raised from $783.90 to approximately $800, and the maximum from $1,000 to $1,200. It also permits employees who have rendered 30 years of service to retire at their option two years prior to the present retirement law.

"It is estimated that normal retirement costs amount now to 8.88 per cent of the Government pay roll, of which the employee pays 5.50 per cent. The present amendment will increase the Government's cost to 10.25 per cent, according to the report made to the House of Representatives by the committee on civil service May 10 last.

Doomed Slayer Gets End Of Serial in Advance

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 17 (A.P.)—A condemned prisoner's interest in a magazine serial story, the conclusion of which would not have been available in the regular course of events until he had been executed, today brought an advance copy of the publication to "murderer" row of the Allegheny County Jail from New York by special messenger.

The prisoner, Paul Jaworski, handily overpowered the slaying of a payroll guard and sentenced to die next Monday when the State Prison Board declined to review his case early in the week he had been reading. A newspaper telegraphed the publisher for an advance copy.

"It's the end for me, too," said Jaworski as he finished the story this afternoon.

Newly turned soil in the back yard of the house at 712 Ninth street southwest caused police to investigate yesterday with the result that they unearthed 72 half-gallon jars of alleged corn and rye whisky.

Sgt. Oscar J. Letterman and members of his vice squad were searching the house for hidden whisky when motorcycle policeman R. H. Knapp, of the Fourth Precinct, discovered the freshly turned earth. He investigated and uncovered a jar. He summoned Letterman and the other policeman who tackled the yard with spades to uncover the other 71 jars.

The police found a half-gallon of whisky in the house pot.

New York, Jan. 17 (A.P.)—The James B. a big motor launch seized by the Coast Guard on December 13 off the New Jersey coast, with its cargo of liquor valued at $137,000, was released today. Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman recently decided that the boat had been seized 40 miles out, or beyond the territorial waters of the United States, and that it had not been bound for an American port.

When the release was granted the boat, owned by W. B. Moriarty, of Halifax, with its crew of five, left the Coast Guard cutter Guyahoga, which was to escort it to Ambrose Light. There a Coast Guard destroyer was to pick it up and convey it to the New London Coast Guard base. At that station the destroyer will be relieved by another which will convey the James B. to Halifax.

The Coast Guard authorities said they were determined the boat should go back to its home port.

ALIENISTS CONFLICT ON HARSH'S SANITY

Student-Slayer Declared by Defense Experts to Be Abnormal.

STATE DISPUTES CLAIM

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 17 (A.P.)—Trial of George R. Harsh, collegiate holdup man and killer, today resolved into a battle of medical experts after the mother and other relatives had appeared on the stand in his defense.

The defense rested after relatives and ten alienists had testified the former Oglethorpe University student was a victim of insanity through habit and illness and possibly hereditary ailments. The State immediately introduced the first of three physicians who said the slaying of a wealthy Milwaukee family was apparently normal and unusually intelligent.

Mrs. George R. Harsh, 37, William, a brother of Milwaukee, and Mrs. J. S. Disoway, of Atlanta, a sister, testified before the State began its rebuttal. They said they had made truthful statements to alienists on the death of the senior Harsh and the life of the youth on trial.

Five Experts Examined.

Five of the defense alienists testified yesterday and a like number today, the last group undergoing rigid cross-examination by Solicitor General John J. Boykin, of Fulton County. The prosecutor was curious particularly as to how the physicians determined that Harsh was abnormal and as to how his abnormality could be linked with the last illness of his father, who died of encephalitis or tumor at the base of the brain in 1921.

Dr. Jim Ellis, of Atlanta, a defense alienist, said a hereditary influence was likely in view of the history of the case. Frederick Dr. Frank Estabrook, by means of X-ray and slides, explained a possible link in glandular illness of young Harsh, and scrofula, a heart distention, with conditions that affected his father.

Boy Called Abnormal.

All the defense physicians testified Harsh was abnormal. Some contended he was a psychopath and others "inadequate." They disagreed as to the degree of mental illness apparent, but concurred in that he was incapable of criminal conduct.

Chicago, Jan. 17 (A.P.)—A fight between striking dairy farmers and other milk producers not taking part in the Pure Milk Association's controversy with Chicago distributors occurred in McHenry County today when some of the dairymen tried to break through picket lines to deliver their milk at a receiving station of one of the large Chicago firms.

Witnesses said about 300 men took part in the affray, although no one was injured. The dairymen, however, were bruised. The McHenry County receiving station, which ordinarily receives about 50,000 pounds of milk daily, reported it received only 1,000 pounds today.

In Lake County other pickets also were guarding some of the milk stations and several farmers said their trucks had been seized and their milk poured out.

The striking farmers are endeavoring to force the distributors to pay them 22.85 instead of $2.50 per 100 pounds which the dealers have so far refused to do. As yet there has been no danger of a milk shortage, the distributors calling on other sources to keep up their supplies.

HOOVER TO CONFER ON PATRONAGE KINK

Situation in New York to Be Discussed at Breakfast Today in Mills' Home.

SUPPORTER TO BE GUEST

By CARLISLE BARNHORN.

President-elect Hoover is to take up the troublesome New York State patronage situation at a breakfast conference today in the home of Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills. H. Edmund Machold, State chairman, and W. K. Hill, Birmingham publisher, who launched a Hoover movement back in the dark pre-convention days when the State organization was holding out against the President-elect, are also to be guests.

Presumably, too, the name of former Senator James W. Wadsworth will enter into the discussion as a Cabinet available, but the setting is rather unfavorable to him. Though strong influence as Senator, head of Pennsylvania: Moses of New Hampshire, and Birmingham, of Connecticut, are pressing for Wadsworth's selection to the war portfolio, and political Washington generally agrees that he is eminently qualified for the place.

Hill's Position Peculiar.

Strangely enough, however, it is doubtful if he has any backing in his own State of the kind that is supposed to count.

The factional situation in the State, which is the principal reason for the breakfast get-together, has a bearing on the senator's availability, probably militating against it.

There is no doubt but that Mr. Hoover intends that Mr. Hill shall have a voice in New York patronage matters. It is a matter of the State organization in the organization in so far as an official position is concerned. He has plenty of standing with Mr. Hoover.

It is believed, however, that Mr. Hill himself was not to be selected as the State chairman at the time of Morris' death. Machold was a happy choice. He is now the State chairman, and he is believed to be a strong force in the State organization.

It is believed that he will be the way the President-elect would have it. It is inconceivable that he should have any love for Hill, but it is not believed that he has any desire to have Hill displaced as national committee man. His view is believed to be to solidify the State organization instead of rending them.

Will Discourage Factions.

It is believed that the plan worked out at this morning's breakfast will provide for recognition by Mr. Hoover of the State organization as a whole in patronage matters, with Machold, as State chairman, the contact between the organization and him. This is believed to be the plan for every State. He wants each State to have a compact, working organization. Senators and members of the House must work in that organization instead of rending them.

Incidentally, this is all a commentary on the reports that have foreseen the President-elect as tearing in and doing away with the old guard and the old-time party organization. Instead of supplanting the old organizations with organizations of his own, as the politicians had feared, it is his idea to make them more efficient.

Getting back to Wadsworth's Cabinet chances, they are not likely to be encouraged by Mills at the breakfast. He and Wadsworth are not friends. Little warmth for Wadsworth's selection exists among the New York congressional bloc. It is the attitude there that might tilt the scales of power toward Hill, whereas a balance is now fairly maintained.

Will Depart Monday.

The Cabinet situation as pertains to New York is indeed peculiar. If William J. Donovan gets a place, as is generally expected, it will not be because of the New York organization. It will be because of his long service in the State. He has any desire to have Hill displaced as national committee man. His view is believed to be to solidify the State organization instead of rending them.

Both Donovan and Wadsworth in the cabinet would make it two New Yorkers in the State, but there are now two Pennsylvanians in the cabinet, whereas there is only expected to be one, Secretary Mellon. In the next, there is only one State thought, though, that it may be the War Department that Donovan will get instead of the Department of Justice.

It was definitely made known that Mr. Hoover will leave Monday morning for Miami.

There were 45 additional cases of the disease reported, bringing the total to 1,496 for this month to 1,496, according to figures made public by Dr. E. J. Schwartz, acting health officer. The day by day reports to the department, Dr. Schwartz said, bear out his prediction that the peak of the epidemic has been passed in Washington.

FOREIGNERS ARE SAFE RITE IN LICENSE BUREAU

London, Jan. 17 (A.P.)—Afghanistan today had its third king within the short space of a week, reports from Moscow purporting to be of Kabul origin indicated. The new king is Habibullah Khan, a rebel leader whose nicknames, Bacha Saka, means "warrior boy." His accession followed abdication by Inayatullah, younger brother of Amanullah Khan, from whom Inayatullah gained his throne only a week ago.

Briefly, what has happened seems to be the accession of Inayatullah to the throne on the abdication of Amanullah, who continued their offensive against Kabul, Afghanistan's capital, and succeeded in invading the city about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Markets Are Open.

Order was said to prevail in Kabul tonight with the foreign legations, missions and institutions guaranteed by reliable Afghan officials. The city's markets are quite friendly. The city's markets are all open and functioning. The reports did not indicate any loss of life or property. The city's markets are all open and functioning. The reports did not indicate any loss of life or property.

Banking Is Mystery.

London, Jan. 17 (A.P.)—The personality and history of Habibullah Khan, known as the "Daring of God," is a Robin Hood in the central Asian fastness of Afghanistan. Messengers of how he has been and ready tribesmen forced Amanullah to relinquish his throne have indicated his unusual qualities, but just exactly who he is or who is supporting him in his bid for the throne is a mystery.

He hails from the north of Kabul and is a member of the Polak tribe, which speaks Persian. A few years ago he was in the Afghan army. Whether he was discharged or deserted is not known. He has since become a wanderer and has been ranging the hills with a comparatively few followers.

That Habibullah profited from his military experience was shown by the way he swooped down on Kabul and routed the Afghan army. It was first believed that Habibullah only wanted to loot the city and return to the hills, but later reports indicated that he had political ambitions and that the Afghan throne itself was his goal.

Foch Continues To Gain Strength

Paris, Jan. 17 (A.P.)—A slight improvement in the condition of Marshal Ferdinand Foch was noted by his four physicians this evening at the conclusion of the fourth day of his illness. Dr. Heitz-Boyer, the spokesman, said: "We are satisfied with the progress of the illness. There is no aggravation of his condition; rather the slight improvement continues. But we cannot promise for the future. His condition remains grave."

In the afternoon Marshal Foch forced acquiescence to his plea to read some of the messages which have been sent him since he became ill. Several from the United States, including cablegrams from the American Legion posts in Indianapolis and New York, were shown him.

The marshal appeared deeply moved and said, "Thank my American friends again."

MAFLOVER CHOSEN FOR HOME OF CURTIS

Vice President-Elect Decides to Reside With His Sister and Brother-in-Law. RESIDENCE PLAN DROPPED

The decision of Vice President-elect Charles Curtis to make the Mayflower Hotel his residence after March 4 apparently settles, for four years at least, the matter of governmental contribution to the Vice President's upkeep.

Sensor Curtis has leased the vice presidential suite in the hotel and will make his home with his sister, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, and her husband, Mrs. Gann will be hostess at all social functions given by Mr. Curtis, who is a widower.

Friends of Senator Curtis recently represented him as not being opposed to a plan by which the Vice President might occupy permanent quarters, regarded as in keeping with the importance and dignity of his office. It was thought his friends had in mind the proposal to the Government some years ago by Mrs. John B. Henderson, of Washington.

Mrs. Henderson offered the Government a handsome residence at Sixteenth and Fuller streets for a vice presidential home. The property represented an investment of about $400,000, and President Coolidge, then Vice President, was represented as preferring not to maintain so pretentious a residence. The matter was dropped, but was again suggested when Vice President-elect Curtis was elected.

Following the recent election, the point was made that should a similar offer be made, the Government might accept it and Senator Curtis, who is of moderate means, was understood to be willing to make every effort to fit in with such an arrangement. It was understood that the Government would be willing to furnish the furniture and the apartment, which has been recently redecorated and ten rooms on the tenth floor of the hotel, facing Connecticut avenue and apart from the main building. In the suite are three bedrooms, a spacious living room, parlors, a large dining room, a kitchen and pantries. A large library connecting with the suite is the Vice President's private office. A private elevator leads to the suite. The hotel company is furnishing the suite. Senator Curtis and Mr. and Mrs. Gann are transferring to it a number of effects from the Cleveland Park home of the Ganns, where Curtis has made his home for several years. The house is to be closed while he is Vice President.

and disposed of it would be a most precious matter.

Mauboussin is ultraexclusive. It doesn't advertise. It has no sign on the door. Silken drapes carry a single letter "M" in the windows. That is all there is to identify it. Entrance is obtained only through a private room. A uniformed guard meets the prospective customer, and transmits his name to the manager. Then the visitor is permitted to enter the room where the gems are displayed.

Activity on Sidewalk.

It is located on the ground floor of an apartment building. The vicinity is inhabited entirely by people of wealth who write their monthly rent checks in four figures. At 1116 a. m. today, the hour of the robbery, nursemaids were taking a few babies and more poodle dogs out for an airing; chauffeurs were gliding in their expensive cars to take the dowagers and debutantes for their morning's ride in the park, and tradesmen were coming and going with the pick of the markets for the tables of the wealthy. The street was alive with activity.

Inside Mauboussin's were Egon Bandier, the manager; Constantine De Mauriac, his secretary; Maurice Bentart, a clerk; Michael Bernacchi, a manufacturing jeweler visiting the place; and one of them, former city detective, who acts as guard, and Mrs. Mills, the negro charwoman. Bandier and Bernacchi were talking business. Mrs. De Mauriac was waiting for a call from her employer. Bentart was moving almost priceless gems from the safe to the display cabinets, and Lowenheim was watching Mrs. Mills scrub the floor.

Of a sudden there was a knock at the door, and the door opened. A young gentleman who pressed an automatic into his well-dressed and well-known others pressed in behind the man who held the gun and commanded all present to be quiet.

Bandier's Men.

Systematically they went about their work of tying each of those in the shop. "I'm sorry to do this," said one of the quietest as he crowded a gag into Bentart's mouth, "but you might make some noise. Just be quiet and I won't hurt you."

Another was tying Miss De Mauriac. "I'm sorry, miss, that I have to do this," he said, "but you know we've got to. Please tell me if this string is too tight. It hurts you. Maybe I can ease it a bit."

Miss De Mauriac said nothing. "It's too bad to put you to all this fuss," he continued, "but you know you are the only woman here and women do get so nervous."

When they were all tied a man who seemed to be the leader nodded and all of them were then bound together with many rounds of a rope encircling them. Two of the quietest next took places near the door, with guns trained on the helpless bundles. The other three went to the open safe, drew a collection of little leather bags from their pockets and began filling the bags with emeralds, pearls, diamonds and rubies.

In three minutes the bags were filled. "We are sorry," said the leader, "but you know how it is. We have to work fast and we are going now."

With that the quietest disappeared through the door, got into the town car waiting at the curb and drove off. The police would pay a lot to know where they had gone.

In a few minutes the first of the employees of Mauboussin worked loose and liberated the others. The police were called.

Wholen Takes Charge.

About 11:30 there was a screeching of sirens and a couple of columns of patrolmen and detectives came up to Mauboussin's salon. There was another search, and from a great car which looked at home on Park avenue, Grover Whalen, immaculately dressed and with the gardenia in his lapel, jumped out. He took charge of the investigation.

Detectives questioned those present while fingerprint experts dusted with aluminum dust the show cases, cabinets and safes from which the jewels had been taken. They obtained what they said was a valuable array of fingerprints. Others brought out of the

LIFE IN PRISON FACED BY LIQUOR VIOLATOR

Michigan Man Is Convicted After Charging That Wife "Planted" Evidence.

FOURTH CASE OF ITS KIND

Manitowish, Mich., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The fourth victim of Michigan's habitual criminal law was convicted on a liquor charge by a circuit court jury today and faces a mandatory life term in prison.

He is Tony Papich, convicted four times previously on similar charges. Papich, in whose home prohibition officers found a quantity of wine, beer and moonshine, testified the liquor had been "planted" there by his wife, who, he declared, wished to be rid of him to devote her attention to another man.

Papich maintained he had left home the day before the raid and that there was no liquor in the house then, although, he said, he smashed a bottle of liquor he had taken from his wife. Sentence probably will be pronounced Friday.

Since Michigan's revised criminal code became effective, in September, 1917, three persons have received life sentences upon fourth convictions.

Fred Fain, Lansing, was the first. His final conviction was for violation of the prohibition laws, but his previous convictions were for other felonies. Representative Box (Democrat), of Texas, said that former Gov. Smith's speech indicated that the bill to continue as leader of the party, with Mr. Rankin in charge of the organization.

Government Cost Increases in Year

Departments' Expenses Up, Except in Two Cases, Treasury States.

(Associated Press.)

Expenditures of all Government departments except two were declared yesterday by the Treasury Department to have increased during the first six months of the present fiscal year, as compared with the same period a year ago.

The total departmental expenditures increased approximately $78,000,000 and amounted to $1,040,885,000 during the first half of this fiscal year. With the addition of the maintenance of the public establishments and public debt requirements, the total governmental expenditures for the six months aggregated $2,028,144,000, compared with $1,924,429,000 last year.

The Executive and the Postoffice Departments showed decreases. The Executive Department spent only $248,000, a decrease of $130,000; while the Postoffice Department called on the Treasury for only $65,000 this half year, as compared to $266,000 last year.

The proposal of Senator Harris (Democrat), of Georgia, to provide an advance of $25,000,000 for prohibition enforcement precipitated a debate marked by the reading of a letter of former Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania criticizing Secretary Mellon's attitude on prohibition, a suggestion by Senator Jones (Republican), of Washington, that $1,250,000 be spent for dissemination of information in favor of law enforcement, and a speech by Senator Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, describing the witness of Pennsylvania.

Senator Schull (Republican), of Minnesota, introduced a resolution to encourage use of waste farm products in the manufacture of new print paper. Senator Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, introduced the statement of former Gov. Smith appealing for contributions to retire the Democratic debt and for the establishment of a working party organization.

BOAT CAPTAIN TAKEN AS ALIEN SMUGGLER

Man Seized in Georgia After Four Years' Search as Head of Ring.

SCHOONER IS IMPOUNDED

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The immigration authorities here today announced seizure of the schooner Fannie B. Atwood, at Brunswick, Ga., and the arrest of its captain, John Souza, sought for the last four years as head of one of the largest alien smuggling rings in the South.

The ring was responsible, they said, for the illegal entry of hundreds of aliens into the United States.

The capture was made by a squad of United States deputy marshals who had sought Souza in Southern ports since 1915, whence he transferred his operations from New England waters.

Authorities said Souza would be taken to Boston immediately to face an alien smuggling indictment returned in May, 1917.

During the last four years, authorities said, Souza, whom they characterized as a master smuggler, had brought hundreds of aliens, mostly Portuguese and Spaniards, into the country, out of schooners from the Cape Verde Islands where there is no American consul.

Government agents estimated Souza had collected thousands of dollars from aliens, willing to pay from $400 to $1,000 each for entry.

Immigration authorities said Souza usually carried two crews, one composed of sailors and the other of alien passengers, and also carried two sets of navigation papers, the aliens, they said, were concealed in a cargo of salt.

When the schooner entered port, Government agents said the aliens posing as the crew, went ashore. They never came back. When the vessel was subjected to search, immigration authorities would find the regular crew aboard.

W. W. Eyster, immigration officer, said, the schooner Fannie B. Atwood, hailed from Bedford, Mass.

2 in State Legislature Unable to Talk English

Santa Fe, N. Mex., Jan. 17 (U.P.).—The presence of two members who do not speak English has prevented the lower house of the legislature from dispensing with the reading of the journal in Spanish.

When a motion to dispense with the Spanish reading was introduced today, the two Spanish speaking members blocked its adoption with eloquent objections.

RAINEY IS PROVOKED BY FURNITURE PLEA

House Tariff Framer Discloses Manufacturers Present on Trust Charge.

HIGHER DUTIES SOUGHT

(Associated Press.)

Request for increased protection for the $700,000,000 furniture industry resulted in a lengthy cross-fire of questioning at the House ways and means committee tariff revision hearing yesterday, when it was developed that some of the companies supporting the plea were fined several years ago for violation of the anti-trust laws.

Robert W. Irwin, of Grand Rapids, Mich., representing the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers testified that foreign imports of household furniture were threatening the domestic industry, despite the anti-trust laws. Irwin answered in the affirmative, but termed the charge an "unjust" one.

He said the companies spent nearly $400,000 on the case, in which a plea of nolle prosequere was entered, and when the jury disagreed a settlement was reached whereby the defendants paid $100,000 in fines.

"Then," put in Rainey, "do you think your national organization is the one that the judge who tried the case had held that such procedure was legal unless there was an agreement among the members to fix prices or control production?"

Rainey observed that accused persons usually do not plead nolle prosequere if the charged with the crime of conspiracy.

"We pleaded that way," Irwin replied, "to bring about an adjustment of the whole matter and for the benefit of the entire industry."

That ended the cross-examination of Irwin, but Rainey asked each succeeding witness for furniture companies whether they belonged to the former association.

When Irwin told the committee that he had not been a member of the association, Rainey asked him to state the tariff rates he believed the industry needed, but would leave that for the committee to determine. Chairman Hawley objected and said that specific recommendations be filed at an early date. This Irwin promised to do, after several days' consideration.

Approved the conference report on the appropriation bill for the Departments of State, Commerce, Justice and Labor. The Senate yet must act.

Representatives of the furniture industry asked the ways and means committee for greater tariff protection.

Representative Box (Democrat), of Texas, said that former Gov. Smith's speech indicated that the bill to continue as leader of the party, with Mr. Rankin in charge of the organization.

Government Cost Increases in Year

Departments' Expenses Up, Except in Two Cases, Treasury States.

(Associated Press.)

Expenditures of all Government departments except two were declared yesterday by the Treasury Department to have increased during the first six months of the present fiscal year, as compared with the same period a year ago.

The total departmental expenditures increased approximately $78,000,000 and amounted to $1,040,885,000 during the first half of this fiscal year. With the addition of the maintenance of the public establishments and public debt requirements, the total governmental expenditures for the six months aggregated $2,028,144,000, compared with $1,924,429,000 last year.

The Executive and the Postoffice Departments showed decreases. The Executive Department spent only $248,000, a decrease of $130,000; while the Postoffice Department called on the Treasury for only $65,000 this half year, as compared to $266,000 last year.

The board examined two eyewitnesses of the accident and Capt. Harry A. Dinger, who commanded the last successful flight of the plane, from Bolling Field to Middletown, Friday morning.

The accident occurred shortly after the plane had left Middletown on its return flight.

The House immigration committee yesterday decided to name a subcommittee to work out a definition for the word "musicians," following testimony on the Johnson bill to restrict entrance of musicians and artists to those who can qualify under the definition.

Joe N. Webber, president of the American Federation of Musicians, classified an artist as one whose skill and genius were sufficient to make him an independent attraction.

Jugglers, pantomimists and other performers admitted under the terms of artists, are throwing the American players out of employment, he said, as they are willing to accept low wages.

Mrs. Blaylock declared she was at one time a friend of the captain, but that now he ignored her. She declared that he had $14,000 in a safe-deposit vault, and claimed possession of papers by which she said she could implicate the official.

Collins gained possession of a white gold ring, studded with two large diamonds, yesterday from the Bureau of Efficiency, which aided the Gibson subcommittee in the investigation.

Mrs. Blaylock said she obtained the ring from the captain. She said the captain had seized it in a raid and had given it to her. Soon after he began ignoring her, the papers charged, the captain offered her a large sum of money for return of the ring.

Collins declared he intended to take the ring to a jeweler and have it appraised.

VARE CONTEST SEEN IN JUDICIARY CLASH

Supporter Is Ruled Out as President Judge of Philadelphia Court.

NEW ELECTION ORDERED

Philadelphia, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The State Supreme Court, called on to decide which of two judges was the president judge of the Philadelphia Municipal Court, today announced neither was and directed a new election be held.

The court bowed out the claim of Judge Leopold C. Glass that his term of president judge expired in 1921 instead of the first Monday in 1920. It also decided the meeting held on January 7 last at which six of the ten members of the court declared Judge Charles L. Brown was elected president judge for the next five years was illegal in that official notice of the meeting had not been conveyed to all ten judges.

The new election will take place tomorrow afternoon.

The dispute reached the supreme court through quo warranto proceedings in the name of the State attorney general.

Some political observers saw in the split among the judges a forerunner of a contest between the followers of Senator-elect W. S. Vare and those politically opposed to him. This opinion was based on the fact that Judge Glass is a Vare supporter and that Judge Brown was a supporter of the old Progressive wing of the party and has never been identified as a Vare man.

Behind the contest for president judge, it was said, was the matter of political patronage, the municipal court having a total of 550 employees who hold their places at the pleasure of a majority of the board of judges.

Bill to Facilitate Claims Settlement

Accord Assures Passage of Measure Letting District Pay Out of Court.

Final enactment at this session of a bill to permit the District Commissioners to enter into out-of-court settlements of claims under $5,000 was assured yesterday, when the Senate and House conferees on the measure agreed to points in dispute.

The bill, as finally agreed upon, sets $5,000 as the limit of any claim that may be settled out of court and permits the settlement of claims dating back to September, 1918. Thus, scores of claims for street paving assessments made under the Boardland act may be settled out of court.

The Commissioners have been anxious to have this bill passed, as they are convinced that it will save the District money. Frequently they have had a chance to settle a claim for less than it finally cost the city when the matter was taken to court.

THE DEMOCRATIC DEFICIT.

Former Gov. Smith's radio speech on Wednesday night followed two general trains of thought. Echoing the sentiment expressed in Gov. Roosevelt's recent statement, he asserted that the salvation of the Democratic party lies in the continual, year-round functioning of the national committee. He further touched upon the $1,500,000 deficit incurred during the campaign and described a plan that has been worked out for its immediate liquidation.

"In agreement with Democrats and Progressives throughout the country," said Gov. Smith, "I am entirely dissatisfied to have the Democratic party be simply a party of opposition. The Democratic party must be a progressive, vigorous, militant party, standing firmly for the rights of all the people; constantly laboring for the vindication of the policies and principles underlying the establishment of our country. The Democratic party," according to the last election returns, is the property of more than 15,000,000 people. There rests upon their shoulders a great responsibility, and they must carry the party forward if it is to be effective, or, for that matter, if it is to be alive."

If the present scheme of two-party government is to be continued the course outlined by former Gov. Smith for the Democratic party must be pursued. Lack of organization largely explains the defeats the Democratic party has suffered, and only through efficient, effective organization can the party hope to reestablish itself. It will take money, however, to establish a permanent Democratic organization, and the first step necessarily must be the liquidation of its deficit.

Mr. Smith asserted that it would not be difficult to obtain a relatively small group of people ready and willing to put up the sum necessary to wipe the deficit from the books. But this, he held, would develop an unwholesome situation. "We should not be under obligation to a few people," he said. "The party should be responsible to the rank and file; and the whole system of calling upon a few rich men to make up a party deficit is wrong." As an alternative, he called upon small contributors to make up the deficit. As his contribution he has turned over to the national committee the publication rights of his campaign speeches, and each contributor of $3 or more to the liquidation fund is to receive a copy of the volume.

This is a novel proposal, but it has merit. Many millions of Americans are admirers of Al Smith. Among them are ardent Democrats, who can manifest both their admiration of him and their devotion to their party by buying his book of speeches and thereby helping to pay off the party debt.

FIVE-DAY WEEK AGITATION.

New York is facing what may prove to be a serious crisis in the building industry as a result of the new demand from labor unions for a five-day week. The Electrical Contractors Association recently approved a five-day week and a 10 per cent increase in wages for its employees. Other workers in the building trades are now demanding similar consideration, and some are threatening to tie up the industry unless their demands are met. As a result the separate agreement of the electrical contractors has involved that body in a fight with the Building Trades Employers Association. The electrical employers are accused of selfishness, lack of cooperation, and precipitating a crisis in the building trades.

Impetus was given the demands of labor for a five-day week by the recent action of Henry Ford. His employment of thousands of extra men to maintain his shops at full capacity and at the same time grant his men an extra holiday each week has been a disturbing element in industry. Laborers will not now be satisfied until the five-day week has been universally adopted. The outcropping of the question in New York is an indication of what may be expected in all parts of the country as soon as the unions feel themselves strong enough to deliver an ultimatum.

With the constant increase of machine production there is no reason why men should spend more than five days per week in the factories. Workers can produce more now in five days than they could in many weeks before the modern methods were developed. If production were maintained at the present tempo and each worker were allowed an extra day of freedom it would solve the unemployment problem and result in benefit to the whole working class. The objective is a worthy one and no doubt it will be achieved in time.

However, the country will look with displeasure on any attempt of organized labor to enforce its demands arbitrarily, under the threat of disturbing industry. To insure success of the shorter work plan it must be brought about gradually, in a way which will not interrupt present good conditions. By threatening strikes in support of their demand labor unions are running the risk of upsetting an orderly transition from the old plan and thus defeating their own ends by swinging the public against the demand.

THE BAR PURGES ITSELF.

The American Bar Association has expelled from its membership Judge Carlos S. Hardy, of the Los Angeles Criminal Court, on his confession that he accepted $2,500 from Almie Semple McPherson, the evangelist of Angelus Temple. The judge had an alibi, but his trial before the California Bar Association resulted in his conviction of violating the ethics of the legal profession. Rules of the Bar Association provide that "a judge should not suffer his conduct to justify the impression that any person can influence him; nor accept obligations, pecuniary or otherwise, which will in any way interfere with his devotion to the expeditious and proper administration of his official functions." The judge was held to have violated this canon.

The action indicates a healthful tendency in the legal profession to oust from its ranks undesirable members, whether they be practicing attorneys or judges. It is encouraging to see such action taken by a professional organization. The action was taken in spite of the courts, which ruled that the association had no power to compel Judge Hardy to testify before its executive committee.

This precedent should prove to be of foremost importance in purging the legal profession. A large percentage of the attorneys and judges of this country are honorable and conscientious, but an efficient plan of dealing with the unscrupulous is needed. The bar associations are in a position to administer discipline in most cases, because an attorney who is publicly condemned by his professional peers has no chance of continuing his practice.

There are cases, however, in which action of the bar associations is seriously hampered. Professional discipline is especially difficult in rural communities. The associations are but private bodies and are unable to compel witnesses to appear and testify under oath. This situation can be met by giving the State supreme courts jurisdiction over the irresponsible element of the bar. Vigilance on the part of the bar associations would serve as a check on misbehavior in most cases. Let the associations maintain their right to discipline members. Cases which could not be dealt with by these unofficial bodies could be handled by the highest tribunals of each State.

"CATCHING THEM YOUNG."

At least four American youths came to crucial stages in their lives during the week. A college boy is on trial in Atlanta, Ga., for robbery and murder which he committed because he could not resist the impulse to do so. Three other youths were summoned to New York to receive the gold medal of the Boy Scouts of America for outstanding heroism in rescuing persons from drowning at the risk of their own lives. It is quite possible that the Atlanta youth might have been among the honored group if his training had been different, and it is equally conceivable that one of the heroes might now face charges of murder had his youthful training been neglected.

Youth is an age of activity, and if boys do not find wholesome channels into which they can pour their energy, they are apt to turn to vice. The schools are busy teaching them mathematics, history, science, and grammar, but the average curriculum makes insufficient allowance for moral training or character development. The deficiency has been recognized in many circles, and public-spirited citizens are now giving their attention to movements designed to inculcate fundamental principles of right living into the consciousness of young people.

Among the newer organizations of this type is the Pathfinders of America, which is dedicated to the problem of "human engineering." The movement originated in Detroit in an effort to rehabilitate prisoners. It found that moral instruction must be given in youth to be effective. No criminal reforms unless he wishes to reform, and then only under a handicap of bad habits that are hard to shake off. So the system was applied to children, in schools, and it has proved a wonderful success.

The Pathfinders make "virtue more attractive than vice." It is not another prosaic plan for taking the joy out of youth; but it aims to promote character development by interesting children in wholesome activities and achievements. Founders of the organization point out that evidence of educational training and fitness is required of doctors, lawyers and ministers before they are allowed to practice their professions, but boys and girls are allowed to grow up, marry and bring children into the world without any appreciation whatever of their social responsibilities and personal responsibilities. Society is paying the price of this ignorance. Any sound organization which is devoted to the task of giving young people needed enlightenment on social relationship and which stimulates them to greater accomplishment of worthy things is deserving of hearty support. Such an organization as the Boy Scouts, for example, is worth more than a thousand societies for the reform of adult criminals. By "catching them young," the Pathfinders are turning boys and girls away from the path that leads to crime.

RADIO REGULATION.

O. H. Caldwell, member of the Federal Radio Commission, told the House merchant marine committee the other day that a commission organization is ill suited "to administer constructively, efficiently or competently a great advancing scientific art like radio." He suggested that the Radio Commission, "whose work is about 35 per cent done," be allowed to revert to the status provided for by the radio law—that of a purely appellate body to function when disputes arise regarding the administration of radio by the Department of Commerce, to which administrative control would revert.

The American Bar Association, however, suggests that the radio licensing authority be put on a permanent basis as soon as possible by strengthening the radio act. The present division of authority between the committee and the Secretary of Commerce, it says, while originally justified by what promised to be the temporary character of the commission's direct control, makes for duplication of work, as well as uncertainty and delay.

With due respect to Mr. Caldwell, it would seem that the sooner the Radio Commission is put on a permanent basis, the better it will be. It may be that the commission organization has not functioned with full efficiency thus far in the administration of the radio law. The fault has not been in the system, however, but in the law itself. With what must be considered a poor law, the commission has done wonders. Radio is better than it was, and as the full effect of the new allocation scheme becomes apparent radio reception will increasingly improve.

Radio is in the infant stages of development. A vast deal of regulation and control remains to be effected. There is no reason to believe that the task ever will be finished. Members of the commission have served at a sacrifice; it is not fair to expect a man to leave a good job to take a Government position that may be terminated at the whim of Congress. Not until the Radio Commission is made a permanent independent office of the Government will high-grade men be able to afford appointments to it, and will it be possible for it to function without regard, conscious or subconscious, to the political effect of its every act.

REAR ADMIRAL MOFFETT.

The uninterrupted progress of the Navy's air program calls for the retention of Rear Admiral Moffett as chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics. His tenure will soon expire, in the midst of most important work which he originated and has developed with remarkable ability. The knowledge and experience he has acquired since he participated in the organization of the bureau in 1921, are an invaluable asset to the Navy and the country. He has built up the morale of the naval air force, supervised the planning and construction of the air carriers Lexington and Saratoga, acquired flying fields, devised catapults and mooring masts, standardized airplane types, helped to develop the air-cooled engine, secured the incorporation of aeronautics in the Naval Academy course, increased the total of flight hours tenfold with increase of safety, encouraged the aircraft industry and commercial aviation, and carried the five-year program half way to completion, with 859 modern airplanes actually on hand. He is now supervising the construction of the two largest dirigibles in the world. Admiral Moffett is entitled to the credit for having demonstrated that dirigibles are capable of enormously valuable service in commerce and war.

A great corporation possessing the services of such a man would not let him go under any consideration. The United States should hold him at his post.

There isn't much danger of revolution in a land where the lowly have frequent opportunity to beat some rich guy to a parking place.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. L. PHILLIPS

MILK BY THE "BUNDLE."

The day of the milk bottle is near its end. The paper "container" has made its appearance in the big cities and it's predicted that ordering "a bag of milk" will soon be a commonplace.

The paper bottle will mean a big saving, it is claimed, for producer and consumer. The average life of the old-fashioned milk bottle has been shown to be four trips. A milk bottle should live longer than that even on a breeze-swept fire-escape.

The loss in broken and lost milk bottles in the United States exceeded $15,000,000 last year. That's a lot of milk bottles, even allowing for exaggeration and double vision.

The paper milk bottle is called a "sealcone." It will do away with breakage. You can drop a quart of milk now and not even crack it. This will remove the satisfaction of dropping it. The worst a careless milkman can do with a quart of milk from now on will be to bend it a little.

Of course, the paper milk bottle is not to be used a second time. This frees the ultimate consumer of the obligation of returning the bottle and means that no matter how careless and slipshod a housewife may be there will not be a dozen old bottles kicking around the back porch or under the sink.

After you are through with the new milk bottle you tear it up. Imagine starting the furnace fire with milk "bottles!"

Consider the improvements that have swept over the dairy world. Not so long ago the farmer used to milk a cow by hand into a tin bucket deliver it on the wagon in 5-gallon cans and ladle it into pitchers or tin pails on the back steps. Now it's all done by electricity, down to the final filling of the sanitary package.

The modern cow spends all its life without getting to know anybody real well. The old personal touch is gone. The next step will be to feed the cow by radio and milk it by television.

MAKING IT HARDER.

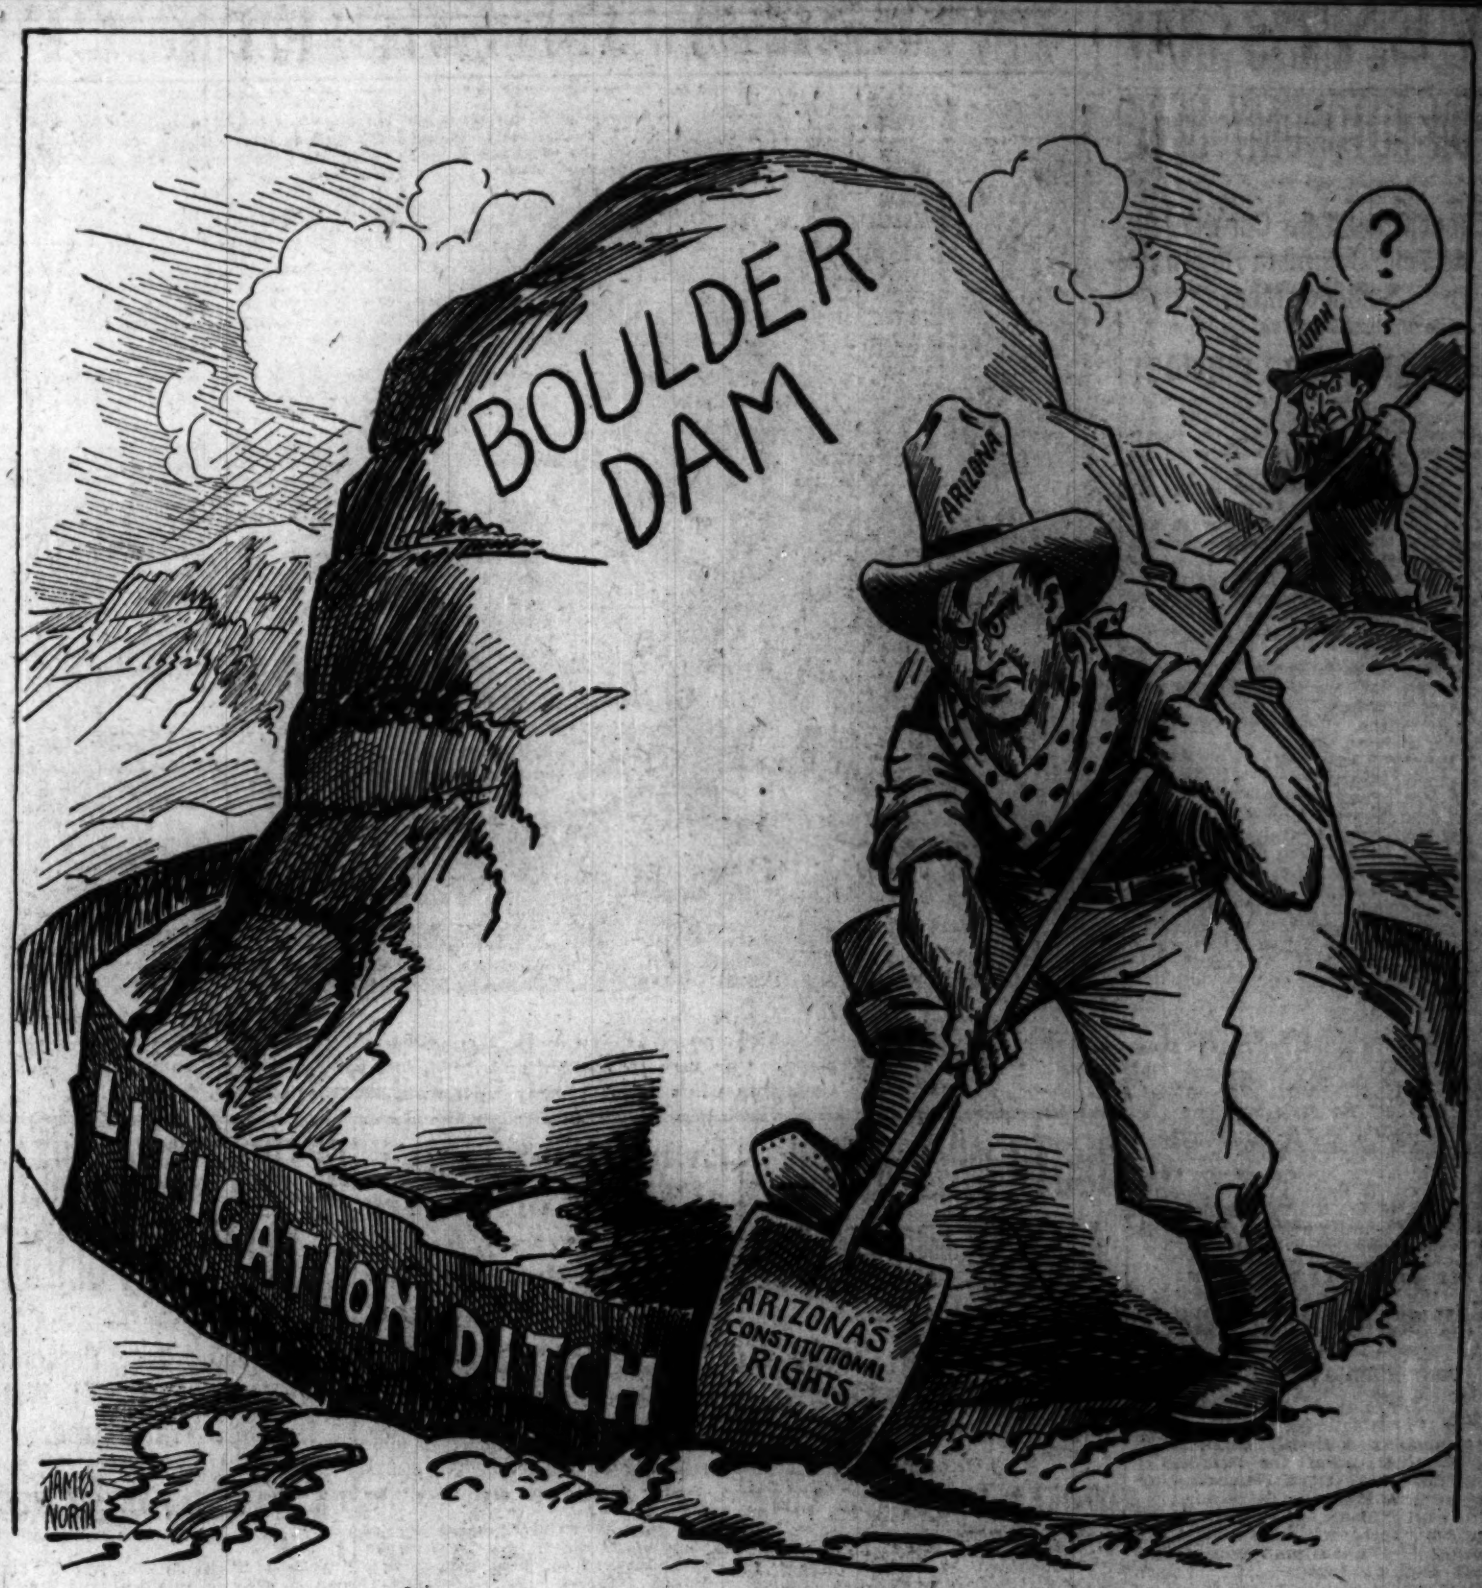

Prof. Einstein has extended his theory of relativity in a book just released, thereby adding another good mystery story to the current supply.

A licensed preacher has purchased a seat on the stock exchange, paying $50,000 for it. If he has any idea of giving out market tips with his sermons the problem of filling at least one church will be solved.

Washington announces that there are 4,690 persons holding flying licenses in the United States. Almost enough to start a demand for low marker numbers.

Prohibition.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The adoption of prohibition by the United States of America is not only the greatest event of the century; it is (I speak with all reverence) the best thing that has reached humanity since the birth of Christ; and, like the Christian religion, it will grow and extend.

Free Hotel for Congressmen.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial of today, headed "Retirement Pay," shows both ability and humanity. Why all this bluster about giving retired Government employees enough pension money to live on for the few years they may be with us, when much of their own money foots the bill? How many "points of order" or foolish questions were injected into the discussions by congressmen when their own salaries were first raised from $2,500 a year to $5,000, then to $7,500 and finally to $10,000?

From the amount of actual "work" performed by some of these beneficiaries one would think that Mr. Andrew Mellon could perform a piece of patriotism by whispering in their ears something about a "Conscience Fund" connected with his Treasury Department. But the "Treasury watchdogs" only "growl" at the other fellows. Legislators should build a hotel for themselves. Then they could take all of their "Congress money" back home when the sessions are over. Wouldn't that be nice for the "lame ducks" and successful ones? H. T. McC.

Washington Is All Circles.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am writing you in regard to the following because I do not know who else to take the matter up with. I left New York Saturday morning, arriving in Philadelphia the following evening. Left Philadelphia Sunday morning and arrived on the outskirts of your city about noon. Believe it or not, I consumed almost as much time getting through your city as I did between Philadelphia and Washington.

I had no idea of sightseeing in your city, but unfortunately I saw the entire place. I am quite sure that I traveled every one of your streets in an effort to locate just "one sign" that would lead me to the U. S. Highway No. 1. In addition to traveling all of your streets I had the pleasure of conversing with all of your cops and a great many of your citizens. They all treated me very courteously, but were unable to furnish me the information that would enable me to get through your city and on my way to North Carolina. They all told me to go a certain distance and turn at a certain corner. In an effort to carry out their instructions I discovered that your streets have no corners, but all run in circles or semicircles.

I would appreciate it if you would take the matter up with the proper authorities and say to them that I realize the fact that quite a few people coming to Washington desire to locate, but that there are a few who will put up a few signs that will enable a stranger to find his way through your city on U. S. Highway No. 1. It will certainly help the passerby.

Man's Vanity Isn't Ticked by His Wife's Good Clothes If She Earned Them Herself.

By ROBERT QUILEN

THIS is advice to young wives who are modern and efficient and independent, but still feminine. The advice is merely a repetition of the age-old truth that you can't eat your cake and have it too.

There are two courses open to you and when you choose one you automatically close the other. The danger is that you will choose blindly without realizing what you are doing.

Because you are modern, independent and capable, you wish to run things—to dominate and make the decisions and have your own way about everything.

Because you are feminine you wish to be courted, deferred to, waited on, adored, given advantages, petted and shown a good time.

Well, you can't have both. You can't because it isn't in man's nature to adore a master.

The vain male, proud of his superior strength and masculine advantages, delights to strut his stuff before the lady of his choice. He is a natural show-off. If he no longer shows his muscle, at least he delights in the knowledge that he is the provider and protector.

While his mate leans on him and looks up to him he revels in doing things for her—dressing her up, taking her to a show, giving her spending money—doing the countless things that show how wonderful and strong and generous he is.

He adores and pets her because her apparent helplessness feeds his vanity.

But let her take the reins and run things—the house, family affairs, the business and even her lord and master—and never again will she be adored and petted.

He may love her, be proud of her, brag about her. But he won't pet her in the old way. He can't without feeling ridiculous. A man can hold a pup in his lap, but he can't hold a 60-pound watch dog in his lap without feeling silly.

He can dare much to rescue a maiden in distress, but he can't offer assistance to a feminine fish who can swim rings around him.

He can kiss and fondle a cute little thing who needs him, but he can't say sweet nothings to a cool-eyed administrator who has just shown him a better way to run his business.

You can boss or you can be a petted darling, but you can't do both. Man may admire his superior, but he won't call her "Honey."

WHAT'S IN A HAND?

Among the minor feats of clairvoyance, character reading through a study of handwriting has been the least provocative of violent disputes, says the New York Times. It has afforded amusement to many, but few have given it the earnest belief that requires strong defense. When the mysteries are made to play a practical part in life—that is, when they affect a man's pocketbook—he will go to court to prove their weakness or validity. This is just what has happened in the case of a German graphologist.

A man who had worked in the same place for fifteen years was suddenly discharged for no reason that he could discover. His employer would not recommend him for another place, and he was having a hard time when he learned that his handwriting was supposed to have revealed undesirable qualities in his character. The employer had long amused himself by a study of handwriting. One day he sent specimens of all his employees' scripts to an expert graphologist. The opinion on the man who was fired was so unfavorable that not even his long record of service saved him.

Now he has taken his case to a Berlin court. If the judge decides that his reputation was unwarrantably injured by the expert's analysis, we may all go on safely picking out the villains among our acquaintances by their writing, for we shall have the assurance that our assertions carry no weight. But if the graphologist is upheld, we had better begin to mind our p's and q's or confine ourselves to the typewriter.

MASON D. LACY.

Simple.
Indianapolis News: The idea seems to be to keep the street cars out of the way of the automobiles, and the automobiles out of the way of the street cars, and the pedestrians out of the way of both, and both out of the way of the pedestrians, and thus make everything pleasant, safe and convenient for everybody, which may require some doing.

PRESS COMMENT.

Tut, Tut!
Cincinnati Enquirer: Holland is noted for its windmills. So is Washington.

Important Allowance.
Detroit News: When the great efficiency expert doesn't know what to call the disparity between his theory and the results as demonstrated, he says it is an allowance for the human factor.

No Sentiment Left.
Kansas City Star: A novelist says women's clothes are their sentiments expressed in fabric. There seems to be very little sentiment among women nowadays, and what there is is expressed in a manner somewhat laconic.

Actions Speak.
Louisville Courier-Journal: Buffalo's commissioner of police advocates paroling first offenders from the bench, giving second offenders a sentence they won't forget and counseling those who come back to court the third time. Gangsters have made no reply to this, but the other day one of them captured and disarmed five Buffalo policemen and escaped in a police car. Probably they believe that actions speak louder than words.

Too Much Light Stuff.
Philadelphia Inquirer: Henry Ford, one of the most successful men of his day and generation, complains that reporters "write too much light stuff." Yet on the very day on which this statement was made he learned of a new book written by the famous manufacturer in which he pictures a perfectly dry world, with tobacco thrown into the discard and everything performed by machinery.

There is no doubt that invention and science are doing much to end the drudgery of every-day life, but we may be permitted to be a trifle skeptical at the suggestion that hard work is going to be a thing of the past. Many of us have adapted ourselves to the prohibition law, but the suggestion that we may later be deprived of the solace of tobacco is too terrifying to be taken with equanimity. We confess to a liking for Mr. Ford; and in the strength of this we may not beg of him not to be too severe with all of the little pleasures which go to make life endurable?

Cat Study.
New Orleans Times-Picayune: As unanswerable as the famous query "Why does the hen cross the road?" is the other zoological question: "How does the dropped cat manage to land on its feet?" The hen study has, we believe, been abandoned by higher scientific circles, but the other day in Philadelphia a professor of distinction carried a cat with him to the lecture platform and before a thrilled assembly put pussy through her paces. The scientist dropped the cat on its side, sideways, feet up, and at various angles; tabby was given the "falling leaf," the "nose dive," the "hatter's fall" and the "loop-the-loop." The professor, in a variety of efforts to confuse the animal, failed gloriously, however, it bailed itself up, and then unimpaired with its well padded feet earthward and ready to cushion its fall. Pussy is said to have enjoyed greatly her first break into natural science, and perhaps if she had been able to use human speech she would have explained to professional regarding the laws of feline gravitation. As it was, however, all she could do in recognition of the game she was helping to play was to purr forcefully and to rub her furry sides against the scientist's trousers leg. The question remains unanswered.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
Washington, Thursday, Jan. 17.—P. M.

Forecast for the District of Columbia: Mostly cloudy and warmer, probably light showers Friday; Saturday, rain, followed by clearing and colder; moderate to fresh south, shifting to west and north-west winds.

For Maryland: Mostly cloudy and warmer, probably light showers Friday; Saturday, rain, followed by clearing and colder; moderate to fresh south, shifting to west and north-west winds.

Pressure has fallen decidedly over southern Canada and the greater part of the United States, and it is now quite low over a wide area with centers of minimum pressure at 29.4 inches, and Kamloops, B. C., 29.4 inches. Pressure is still high, but falling over and south of the Canadian maritime provinces. Sable Island, 30.3 inches, and it is relatively high and rising over Alaska and the Mackenzie Valley, Kodiak, Alaska, 30.18 inches. Precipitation, mostly light, has occurred within the last 24 hours in portions of every State. The weather has become much warmer in the lower lake region, the great central valleys, the southern Plains States, and in the interior of the Gulf States and the North Atlantic coast.

The Colorado disturbance will move rapidly east-northeastward during the next two days, and it will be attended by rain over nearly all sections east of the Mississippi River, except the Florida peninsula. The weather will become considerably warmer Friday in the Atlantic States and the Appalachian region, but colder weather will overpread the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the lower lake region Friday night and Saturday, and the Atlantic States during Saturday and Sunday night.

Along the North Atlantic coast the winds will be fresh to strong south and southwest and weather overcast and thick with occasional rain Friday. Along the Middle Atlantic coast the winds will be fresh south or southwest and weather overcast, probably occasional showers Friday.

Along the South Atlantic coast the winds will be moderate southerly over north portions and south over south portion, and weather partly overcast Friday. Over the Gulf of Mexico (east of longitude 90 degrees) the winds will be increasing southeast and south, becoming fresh, and weather partly overcast Friday. Over the west Gulf of Mexico (west of longitude 90 degrees) the winds will be fresh southerly and weather mostly overcast, probably local showers Friday. Over the Caribbean Sea (west of longitude 75 degrees) and windward Passage the winds will be moderate to fresh northeasterly or easterly and weather generally fair Friday.

NEW TRIUMPHS WON
BY STRING QUARTETSFlonzaley Players Score in Farewell Appearance
in Washington.

SWASTIKA GIVEN PRAISE

Washington lovers of music enjoyed two chamber music concerts yesterday in which the famous Flonzaley Quartet made its farewell appearance in this city in the sixth event in the Community Institute series at Central High School auditorium, and the Swastika Quartet, from the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia, at the Hotel Mayflower, made its first bow to a Washington audience.

The Flonzaley Quartet is making a farewell tour of the country after a record of 25 years of concert giving, during which it has played in more than 500 American cities and given more than 1,800 concerts. Oration after ovation last night was accorded the quartet, which included three of its original members—Adolfo Betti, Alfred Pochon and Ivan d'Arachambeau—while Nicholas Moldovan, violinist, has taken the place of Ugo Ars, who was obliged to retire because of ill health.

A beautiful program was selected for the final appearance in Washington, one which displayed to the full the "perfection of ensemble and interpretation" for which the quartet has become noted. Beethoven's "Quartet in B flat" was the piece de resistance. The players' work in this was, as always, the output of the finest in quartet playing—sensitive and warm.

Audience Leaves Reluctantly.

In each movement one gained the idea of a sonorous and clarity of tone, a creative sense of artistic values and coordination and balance which comprised one explanation of their quartet's success on the concert stage. Handel's "Sonata a Tre" was another attractive number, while "Death and the Maiden," by Schubert, again was enthusiastically received.

It was with reluctance that last night's audience left the concert hall, and it is probable that many of the quartet to return it would abandon its plans to retire from the concert stage. The members of the Swastika Quartet are, for the most part, still students and include Gama Gilbert, violinist, Benjamin Sharip, violin, Sheppard Lehnhoff, viola, and Orlando Cole, violoncello. These young men brought to their musical task yesterday the enthusiasm and zest of youth and a fine sense of artistry in chamber music presentations.

Beethoven Work Well Given.

The first number was Beethoven's Quartet in F Minor, with its five beautiful movements. The players met the occasion for virtuosity in the quartet and produced a remarkable ensemble tone and played with balance and a nice sense of phrasing. A novelty was introduced in the second number, composed of two sketches for string quartet based on Indian themes. The haunting beauty of these sketches made the concert memorable and they were executed with vim and adequate interpretation.

Mozart's dainty chamber music had its place on the program in his Quartet in D Minor, K. 421. In this the andante movement of real loveliness, while the familiar minuetto was given with sprightliness and much grace.

The sound musicianship of the players was most reassuring in its promise that the new generation of master musicians will not desert the classic traditions which have enriched music so much in the past.

Bedford, Va., Jan. 17.—James Potter, Alliance, N. C. student at Randolph-Macon Academy, has confessed, police say, to setting fire to the building last Saturday night, causing a damage of several thousand dollars. He was placed under arrest and confined in the local jail, awaiting the arrival of members of his family.

Potter is less than 18 years of age. No motive was given. Several other students are reported implicated, but no other arrests have been made.

IS FREE TO SUBSCRIBERS

Fire Chief George S. Watson yesterday was listed among The Post subscribers who are protected by The Post Insurance policy, offered to all new subscribers without cost.

Chief Watson took out the policy because he believes it offers an additional protection, without cost, to members of his family. Because of the hazards of their daily lives firemen are considered by insurance companies as an extraordinary risk and certain special provisions, in the form of special policies, have been prepared and are being paid for by the firemen.

Other insurance provisions, such as due to relief funds which are returned in death benefits and pensions, are being paid monthly by members of his department, Chief Watson said, and he urged that his men continue these insurance provisions. Neither Chief Watson, nor The Post, propose that The Post Insurance policy, given free and without cost, is a substitute for insurance now carried by firemen, policemen and private individuals. The Post Insurance policy was taken out, Chief Watson said, because it offers additional protection without cost.

YOUNG VIOLINIST IS HEARD

The fifty-fourth concert of the Washington College of Music took place last night in Barker Hall of the Y. W. C. A. and a number of students from the preparatory and college department participated in the program.

A group of young pianists from the preparatory department were heard first. These talented young folks were effective in their playing. Among them were Janice Levitt, Pauline Slavin, Evelyn Elbender, Ruth Diamond and

The Post provides for death benefits ranging from $1,000 downwards and accident benefits payable each week. The policy is given new subscribers free for the first year. To be renewed a payment of $1.50 is required for another year. The same payment is required for present subscribers of The Post. The policy increases in value each year for five years.

The insurance offered costs The Post more than it charges our subscribers for renewal. It is offered by The Post as evidence of good will and public service and with the purpose of bringing its subscribers into closer communion with The Post.

All Form-Fit garments are made to fit perfectly, to wear well, and to be comfortable. Our selection includes heavily boned garments as well as those of light weight.

Irving Phillips, leader Fischer, a violinist in the preparatory department, gave good account of himself in two numbers, "Larghetto," by Handel-Hubay, and "Perpetuo Mobile." His bowing was excellent and his technical command of his instrument was unusual for his age.

Robert Eldridge, tenor from the college department, displayed a mellow, well-handled voice in "Jean," by Spross, and "Come Into the Garden, Maud," by Balfe. He sang with ease and expression as did Charles Eldridge, baritone, who was applauded for his work in "The Trumpeter," by Dix, and "Gloria," by A. Bruni Peccia.

"Mon Coeur," from "Samson et Delila," Saint-Saens, gave Miss Dorothy Sawyer, contralto, a chance to contribute a pleasing portion of the program. Three pianists, Miss Anne Smith, Miss Mary Gistock, and Maxwell Short showed how well trained they had been in their selections. Excellent work was done by Herman Wiehe, violinist, in two Schubert numbers.

Altogether the program reflected great credit on the Washington College of Music and its instruction.

FRENCH TENNIS STAR PLANS RETURN HOME

Miss Lenglen Engages Ship Passage After Quitting Mrs. Baldwin's Home.

HOSTESS' SON DEPARTS

Los Angeles, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The management of the Biltmore Hotel here today confirmed reports that Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, and her mother, who abruptly left the Los Angeles home of their hostess, Mrs. Anita Baldwin, last week, had made arrangements to return to France.

It was said at the hotel that the two women had made steamship reservations through the Biltmore Hotel of New York on a vessel sailing shortly but that details were not available here.

Whether Baldwin M. Baldwin, son of their hostess and former tennis manager for Miss Lenglen, was accompanying the two women was not known here.

Mrs. Baldwin Seeks Son.

Reports came also from the home of Mrs. Baldwin, daughter of the late E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, millionaire mining man, that she was attempting to locate her son. Young Baldwin left his mother's home at the same time the Lenglens departed. Miss Lenglen and her mother moved to the Biltmore here and Baldwin also established quarters in the downtown area.

Shortly afterward Baldwin and the two French women vanished, and no trace of them has been found since. Before leaving the hotel Miss Lenglen denied that she had had a disagreement with her hostess.

"Just Up and Left," It Is Said.

At the Baldwin estate it was learned that an string of opinions last Thursday had been followed by the abrupt departure of the two French women and Young Baldwin, W. E. Harrington, representing Mrs. Baldwin, reported, "It was not exactly a row; they just up and left."

Young Baldwin, who has a wife and two young daughters here, brought Miss Lenglen to visit his mother before Christmas. Mrs. Baldwin, it was then denied rumors that Miss Lenglen and her son were engaged to marry, or that there was any prospect of an engagement.

Woman, Boarding Car, Is Hurt in Collision

Mrs. Mary A. Bucher, 60, 1850 Fuller street northwest, received bruises on the hip and a sprained wrist yesterday when she was thrown to a loading platform at Thirtieth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest by the impact of another street car colliding with the one which she was boarding. Both cars are the property of the Capital Traction Co. Neither was badly damaged.

Mrs. Bucher refused hospital treatment, but was taken to her home in a private automobile. Several other passengers on the cars were said to have been shaken up by the collision.

Culbertson Is Awarded Rumanian Grand Cross

William C. Culbertson, American Ambassador to Chile and former Minister to Rumania, has been awarded the Grand Cross of the Order of the Star of Rumania by the Rumanian government, the legion made known yesterday.

The decoration was transmitted to Mr. Culbertson at Santiago through the Rumanian legation at Paris and, in accordance with American diplomatic custom, the Ambassador has sent the medal here for temporary deposit in the State Department archives.

Kiwanis Club Reports $17,723 Dues Received

The Kiwanis Club of Washington collected $17,723 in dues last year. George H. Winslow, secretary-treasurer of the club, announced yesterday at the weekly luncheon of the members.

Of this amount, $4,083 was spent for orthopedic and welfare activities of the club and $6,921 deposited in a reserve fund. Members of the Savoy Musical Comedy Company, appearing at the Belasco, entertained with songs, music and skits. Edgar Morris, president, presided.

Dr. E. T. Devine to Be Honored.

Dr. Edward T. Devine, recently resigned as dean of the graduate school of the American University, will be honored at a farewell luncheon tomorrow in the W. C. A. Building, Seventh and M streets northwest, by members of the Monday Evening Club, the Council of Social Agencies and other welfare groups. Dr. Devine will leave Washington soon to become director of the Bellevue-Yorkville health demonstration, in New York.

War Veterans in Business.

Minneapolis (A.P.).—Seven years ago the Minnesota American Legion Auxiliary established a workshop so a few disabled war veterans might make paper puppets. Now the shop does an annual business of $21,000, making toys and gifts as well as puppets.

BABE RUTH WEEPS AT BURIAL OF WIFE

Sobs Convulsively, Standing in Snow, at Rites for Victim of Fire.

EFFECT OF STRAIN SEEN

Boston, Jan. 17 (U.P.).—His huge frame bowed in grief and tears streaming down his tanned cheeks, Babe Ruth, idol of American baseball, today sobbed convulsively at the funeral of his wife, Helen Woodford Ruth, who died last week of pneumonia. The Babe, who has a wife and two young daughters here, brought Miss Lenglen to visit his mother before Christmas. Mrs. Baldwin, it was then denied rumors that Miss Lenglen and her son were engaged to marry, or that there was any prospect of an engagement.

Community Survey In City Discussed

Plans Outlined by Speakers at Meeting of Board of Trade.

Plans for a community survey of Washington were discussed last night at a meeting of the Washington Board of Trade in the Willard. Various phases of the survey were presented by Merle Thorpe, editor of Our Nation's Business, Col. William B. Ladd, Engineer Commissioner of the District, and John Hinder, formerly of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The 850 members of the board present also endorsed the Crampton bill, extending the parkway system of the District, and expressed themselves in favor of the appointment of a member of the District bar to the vacancy on the District bench.

The survey, which will include data on every phase of life and activity in Washington, was outlined by Hinder. He said the funds necessary to insure its success had been collected up to one-half the amount needed and that splendid progress is being made in this work.

Dr. White's Claims Approved in House

Amendment, Allowing Hospital Chief's Perquisites, Is Upheld.

The House yesterday approved an amendment to the Interior Department appropriation bill which permits Dr. William A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital, to continue to occupy his quarters at the institution and to receive various allowances while in the meantime the Personnel Classification Board makes a new study to determine whether he is entitled to such perquisites.

Comptroller General McCarl ruled last summer that Dr. White's allowances amounted to about $11,000 a year, which would leave him owing the Government money. When the Interior bill came up in the House, Representative Blanton, of Texas, an ancient enemy of Dr. White, had the allowance struck out on a point of order.

The amendment adopted yesterday was presented by Representative Crampton, of Michigan. The Senate and House conferees on the bill must still agree on several other amendments before the measure is sent to the White House.

RIVER TO GET ASHES OF DR. GOLDBERGER

Pellagra Conqueror's Desire That Body Be Cremated to Be Carried Out.

SERVICES HELD AT HOME

The request of Dr. Joseph Goldberger, 54 years old, research expert of the United States Public Health Service, who died yesterday, to have his body cremated and his ashes cast over the Potomac River, will be carried out at 11 o'clock this morning.

The funeral services at the residence, held yesterday, were conducted by Rabbi Abram Simons, an intimate friend of Dr. Goldberger.

Dr. Goldberger was stricken several months ago while engaged in study of diet thought to be the cause of pellagra. He is credited with having discovered the cause of the disease.

The cause of Dr. Goldberger's death was hyperphosphoria, a malignant kidney growth closely related to cancer. Announcement of the diagnosis was made last night by Dr. C. W. O. Bunker, lieutenant commander of the Navy, in charge of the United States Naval Hospital.

Dr. Goldberger had spent 25 years of his life in the medical profession. For fourteen years he was in charge of public health investigations of pellagra. It was through his experiments that it was established the disease was caused by an unbalanced diet. He demonstrated the means whereby it might be prevented and cured. His work contributed largely to the general knowledge of nutrition. He discovered the vitamin "P" or pellagra preventative, and showed that dried yeast contains it. This is regarded as an inexpensive concentrate safeguard against the malady. Dr. Goldberger's discovery has virtually erased pellagra from the list of dreaded diseases.

Surgeon General Hugh Cumming yesterday paid tribute to Dr. Goldberger's work, declaring it was one of the outstanding contributions to medicine against the malady. Dr. Goldberger's discovery has virtually erased pellagra from the list of dreaded diseases.

Dr. Goldberger was born in Austria-Hungary. He came to America at the age of 7. He was a graduate of the Bellevue Medical College, New York. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Mary Goldberger; three sons, Benjamin Goldberger, E. I. Goldberger and Joseph Goldberger; and a daughter, Miss Mary H. Goldberger. He also leaves six brothers and four sisters.

1812 War Veteran's Widow Dies Here at Age of 101

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Jane Foster, 101 years old and the oldest widow of a veteran of the War of 1812, who died yesterday at her home in the Kenesaw Apartments, will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the residence. Burial will be in the Oak Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Foster passed most of her life in Washington. She was the widow of Adams Foster, a lawyer, who died in 1860. After her husband's death Mrs. Foster made her home with a daughter, Mrs. Jane Adams Foster, who was born in Charles County, Md., and resided in Connecticut after her marriage. Her husband served as commodore secretary to Commodore John Rogers on the frigate President.

Mrs. Foster is survived also by a son, Dr. Romulus Foster, and a granddaughter, Mrs. J. Stewart Bowen.

Vaudeville Artists on Air Tuesday

Prohibition From Broadcasting Lifted by Mergers—Another New Hour Coming From Radio Manufacturers Asso.

The inevitable audience will reap the first dividend as a result of the different mergers that have been going on lately with the going on the air of the principal vaudeville artists who up to this time, have been prohibited from broadcasting.

It comes about through taking over by the Radio Corporation of America of the Keith-Orpheum circuit. It is said to foreshadow another move which listeners will doubtless welcome. This will likely be the early appearance over the radio of a number of outstanding vaudeville stars who heretofore have not been permitted to broadcast, but who may now do so because of the merging of the Victor Phonograph Co. with the Radio Corporation.

The first of the vaudeville appearances is scheduled for next Tuesday evening at 11 o'clock, through the network which may include WRC. Among those who will appear will be Max Murray, Belle Baker, Will Fyfe and Nick Luckas. These vaudeville hours will pick up the performers from the dressing rooms in whatever cities they happen to be playing.

Another new hour will be put on the air by the Radio Manufacturers Association, of which R. M. Gaddis, formerly of Washington, is secretary. All the national chains will carry these RMA programs. One radio manufacturer, each week, at a different hour to be fixed by each contributing company, will arrange a special program to be broadcast under RMA auspices through the courtesy of the contributing manufacturer member of the RMA. Different types of programs will be arranged to afford variety, and the new series, virtually assured for fourteen weeks and likely longer, is planned to begin probably as early as next week.

There was a conflict in a Washington home night before last when members of the family desired to hear different programs at the same hour. The grown-ups wanted to hear from Gov. Al Smith and the junior members of the family put in a plea for the New York Fire Department Band.

Luckily in this home there were two radio sets and in the same room, so the family composed its differences by turning on Gov. Smith, with the firemen's band as a background. Incidentally, the band, which was broadcast from Madison Square Garden, proved quite a musical surprise. Composed entirely of uniformed firemen, the spirited playing of the "Glenn Miller March," accompanied by drums and bugles, reminded listeners of the Seventh Regiment and other of the famous old New York military bands.

4. What should the bidding be at Auction?

Question No. 13. What should the bidding be at Auction?

Question No. 14. What should the bidding be at Auction?

Question No. 15. What four cards should be played to the first trick?

Question No. 16. What suit should be led to the second trick?

13. At Auction, South should obtain the contract with a bid of one No Trump.

14. Contract, South has ample strength to bid three No Trumps and should obtain the contract with that bid. He has a singleton in South's Ace and his hand counts 24, making the three-bid advisable. It will be noted that if South takes with only two, Dummy would not have the strength to jump to the game-going three.

15. To trick 1, West leads the Trey of Spades, North plays the Seven, East the Six, and South the Ace. If West's suit had been headed by K-Q-10, he would have led the Ace. But he has a long suit and a weak hand. East has four North shows four, and West against a No Trump must have led from a long suit. The Trey of Spades, singleton must be an honor because West would not have led a small card from Ace-King-Queen.

16. South knows that East has a Spade honor because West would not have led a small card from Ace-King-Queen. The declarer must win the Ace of Spades. If Declarer also should lose to the King of Clubs, he would not make game. So he must win the Ace of Spades and could make four Spades tricks, he would have tried the Club finesse; but as the six remaining adverse Spades probably are evenly divided, that risk seems unnecessary.

HERE is a vital need in Washington of an institution such as the Citizens Mortgage Corporation. Italian-Americans frequently feel reluctant to approach the typical local bank in which the officers have not sufficient understanding of the language of the applicant properly to accommodate him.

The management of the new company is exceptional. Mr. Schiavone, the president, has a background of years of experience in financial affairs, particularly with Italian-Americans. The directorate includes men well known in Italian-American business circles.

You are invited to participate in the preferred stock of this company which is 7% cumulative. Additional information concerning this investment will be furnished on request season will reach its peak tonight when four games will be staged, involving Georgetown, Washington, Yale and Gallaudet. Not since last year have the fans met with such a large and diversified crowd.

Following is the program:

Georgetown vs. Penn State, at American University, Nebraska and Maryland vs. Northwestern, 8:30 o'clock. Preliminary game at 1:30.

Maryland vs. Johns Hopkins, at Catholic U. vs. Villanova, at Brookland, 8:30 o'clock. Preliminary game at 1:30.

Gallaudet vs. Shepherd College, at Kendall Green, starting at 8 o'clock.

Georgetown will be meeting one of the best teams in the country, Penn State, which is making a two-day invasion of this territory. The Midway game will clash with Mary Kenner at Annapolis.

Johnny Dunn will resume his old place forward on the line, as the second shift of the Hoyas line-up, as coached by Coach Kline, Nippy

The shift, announced after yesterday's final workout at the Hilltop, was due partly to the fact that Jack Barnes, who had been slated to out into the regular line-up, was ordered to bed in the Georgetown Hospital with a heavy cold, thought to be bordering on influenza.

Dunham will lead speed to Georgetown's national title, as Ripley says on the fastest "cutting" player on his squad. He will team with Don Duston, the cleaver of the line, and sure under-the-backsman.

Paul Dillon, hustling sophomore, who battled his way into the first team on the Hornet, will lead the trip, again will do pivot duty, and the diminutive but valuable Freddy Dutton, the capital's best up with McCarthy in the back field.

Penn State rights now is one of the teams feared of Northern colleges, though even the strength it showed difficulty winning. The Lions, with Capt. Lou Reilly, "lanky center," and the star, the state's victory streak of three games and are

The athletic feud between the two State rivals, starting at 8 o'clock. The aforementioned heat has nothing to do with the gymnasium's heating plant. If the question should be raised, Maryland likes to beat Johns Hopkins and Hopkins likes to lick Maryland much the same as a starved seaman likes the conquest of a juicy T-bone steak. Either club will regard victory as a choice morsel.

Maryland is rated the favorite, despite the fact that Coach Burton Shipley will send a changed line-up into the fray. The Old Line's defeat of Capt. Thurston Dean, guard, and Julie Radice, forward, normally two of the clearest men on the Old Line squad, will see their places filled by John Pitzer and Bob Gaylor, respectively. Shirley feels that a rest of a

It pinks will exhibit a strong combination, according to reports, and in Debuskey, center, will uncover a man hampered by a knee injury. The best all-around artist in Maryland. An interesting sight of the attraction should be found in the duel between Debuskey and Madigan.

Aside from the dope offered by past performances, a Maryland triumph is seen in the fact that Shipley's squad is being urged for a victory over the Baltimore aggregation. In addition to the seven Terrapins already mentioned, Shipley has John Alexander and Morris (French) Ochan, forward, and Warren Rabbit and Burton McDann, guards.

Under Maryland, the Maryland Band and large delegations of partisan rooters will be there, rah, rah, and doctors and nurses will be placed at convenient points to care for the dead, fainting and wounded.

C. U. Coach Hopes for Halt in Succession of Defeats.

"The retreat 'tops tonight,'" says Coach Fred Rice of his Catholic U. of Washington. The "redskins" and the maroon jerseyed players are about to shake off their losing ways.

Five straight losses have spotted the Catholic U. coach's record to date this season, four of the socks having been administered by its foes on the home floor. No previous team in the 18 years of coaching here has lost more than two home games in a single season.

Williamson faces Catholic, 11th home test, a brilliant record (10). The Pennsylvania dribblers dropped a decision to Baltimore, who defeated Catholic, and lost also to St. Ignace.

College basketball is "hot" but the visitors have nothing to shout about over that.

Opening Stake To Clean Play, Sprinter

Duncan Colt Ridden by Fields; Stand By Head Behind.

Wagering by Envelope Plenty But Small; Rennick Unseated.

HALF A RACE TRACK, Miami, Fla., Jan. 17 (N.Y. N.S.).—The Miami Jockey Club's winter meeting, reviving racing in Florida after a lapse of nearly two years, opened without any interference from the authorities this afternoon. Close to 10,000 persons were in the stands and those who tried out the oral system of betting and backed the favorites had a successful afternoon, for all six of the favorites won.

Clean Play, a sprinter by Sweep-Play-Toy, won the inaugural Purse of $2,000 added as six furlongs, after one of those finishes that thrill racing crowds. Fighting head and head from the beginning of the stretch with Stand By, he beat Frank Bray's consistent colt by a head on the winning post. Leonard B. was third.

Five went to the post for the Inaugural, and Stand By went to the front at the break. Clean Play forced the pace all the way and it was the riding of George Fields on Mrs. Duncan's colt that brought him home in front though there was little to choose between them at the end.

Wagers put in Envelopes No Soliciting of Bets.

When the field paraded to the post for the first race there was a burst of applause that indicated the sentiment of Miami in welcoming the sport back. Betting, and there was plenty of it, though the amounts wagered were for the most part two's and five's, went on uninterrupted although there were plenty of gray-clad policemen with sidearms in view mingling with the crowd under the stand and on the lawn.

The public, used to betting in the mutuels, was a little slow in learning to put the money in an envelope and write the memorandum of the wager on the top and sign it, but there were plenty of willing advisers. Although the stakes were not up, prices were quoted on the race card. There was no soliciting of wagers.

Backers got off on the right foot for the start of the meeting, for the first three winners were favorites. The Crescent Stables' Sun Alito, which had the distinction of winning the first race, started an odds-on choice and was much the best of the ten that paraded. He was slow to get going, but closed fast on the gray-clad policeman around the stretch turn, to win by a length from Jim Crow.

Clap Trap Lucky to Win.

Clap Trap, which carried A. Averil Hartman's Arden Farm silks to victory in the second race, was lucky, for Pigeon Wing II ran out at the head of the stretch and let him up on the rail. At that, he was all out to beat Runaway Princess by a head.

A spill marked the running of the third race, but Jockey Rennick, who was unseated when his mount, Uncle Al, stumbled, escaped with a mild shaking.

Bob Odum, who saddled Clap Trap, and F. Weiner, who rode him, scored a double when W. Weiner's Common Sense romped off with the fourth race, winning by six lengths from Charming Lady, with W. J. Salmon's Gladie third.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.
The Parent Counselor.

It's the So Forths.
It is the "so forths and so on" which count up in the bill for the "extra" after papa has consented to pay for the dress.

The youthful correspondent for today is asking for a facial set, a loud-speaker and "so forths." How can I get my father to let me use rouge—at least some rouge, since mother's idea is that a little would not harm me? Then Miss Fifteen adds that she is thoroughly modern, but not a flapper, wears short dresses, and as few clothes as possible. "Dances all modern dances in the modern way, and so forth and so forth."

Ah! It is this "so forth and so forth" which sets us to wondering. Can it be that it includes early hours in the morning, not those of the cold plunge, but rather those of hours when we rattle the milk bottles so daddy will think it is the milkman who has driven to the door and not us with our sweetie? Is it barely possible that one of these "so forths" includes a steady boy friend and where reminiscences of the night before disturb the continuity of classroom thought? Or do these little extra "so forths" of this child who dances modern dances in a modern way include back talk, neglect of home chores, and a general letting down of her "morale?"

I suspect it is this let-down business which worries father and that he does not care a penny's worth whether or not his precious fifteen uses rouge. What he worries over is her "modernness"—for example, that phrase, "just as few clothes as possible," perhaps, puts him to the quick. If his daughter simply said she wore short dresses he wouldn't say anything. But it's when she deliberately wears just as few clothes as possible that he pulls the curtain on the shutting down act.

We notice that mother is not worrying. Perhaps she is closer to the laughter than the father; possibly she knows the psychology of modern maidens of 16 better than dad; very likely she sits up until the youngster goes to bed, maybe she is insisting that the girl have some home duties to keep her from being ultra modern; perhaps mother has talked over with daughter some rather important things in life in a way which has established a confidence between the two which even the rouge-hating father may envy.

Dad is going to make a big mistake if he gets set on this rouge business and fights a daughter who is simply "modern" because everybody else is "modern." Far better to believe that his little girl is just as well-intentioned as millions and millions of other youngsters of that age.

But I'll wager a cookie that the rouge does not mean anything one way or the other. Of course, it is a pity that she hasn't two of nature's rose petals on her cheeks which could not be covered over any more effectively than she could gild a lily.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

Not a Piece of Real Estate.

We met at a New Year's party—and knew instantly that we were intended for each other. She has the refusal of me and knows it. I never expect to care for any other girl. But she is only a kid—16. Her parents have an old-fashioned idea and want her to know a lot of fellows before she picks the lucky one. They advise her to be just "best girl friend" for a few years without any formal engagement. Would you consider it manly for me to consent to this? Remember she has the refusal of me forever.

YOUNG CLERK.

Answer—I think her parents are decidedly new-fashioned, because it was the old-fashioned ones who married and raised a family at the age of 16. You talk as though you were buying a piece of real estate and had an option on the girl. Indeed, I do consider it "manly" to follow the advice of her parents.

Taxicabs and Girls.

Was it safe for my young college daughter when she came home at Christmas to take a taxicab at the railroad station? She has to go across a city between two terminals and I fear the chances she takes.

WORRIED MOTHER.

Answer—I suppose you are thinking of evil results rather than accidents due to collision. Always have her patronize a standard company. Take a taxi at the station and not at some street corner. A college girl coming off the train to go to a station is a different proposition than one who steps out of a cabaret dolled up like a Christmas tree.

Walska Visits Chicago In New Concert Attempt

Chicago, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ganna Walska, who in the last few years has made three singing engagements here, only to cancel each one, returned to Chicago today for the fourth attempt. She is scheduled to sing Saturday afternoon.

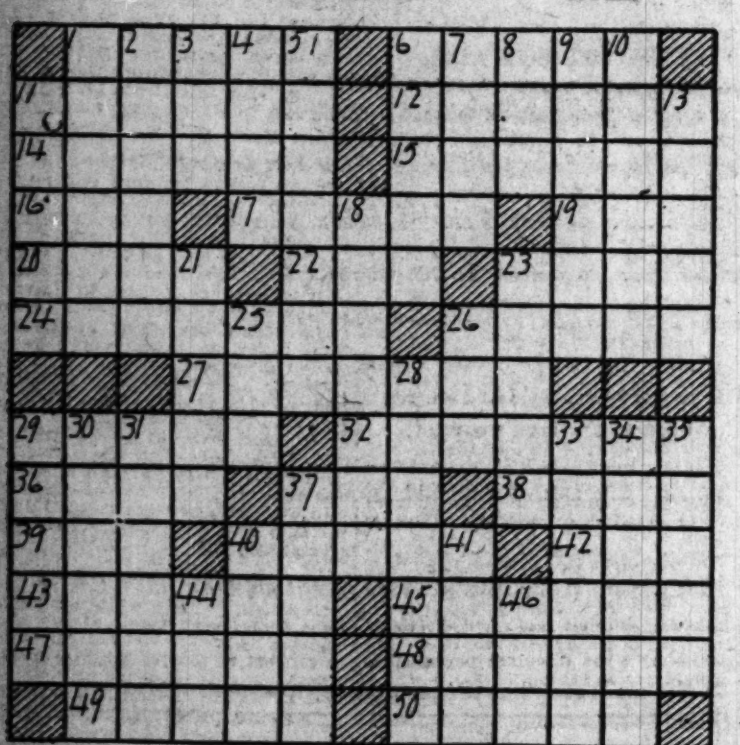

She was met at the train today by her husband, Harold P. McCormick, and half a dozen reporters and photographers. "Tomorrow," she told reporters, "I make an announcement—a very important announcement." It was in connection with her perfume business, she said.

Schwab Kept at Home By Influenza Attack

New York, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, was confined to his home on Riverside drive today with a slight attack of influenza.
